

Viet Buddhists Again OK Plans For Elections

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders in Saigon today reaffirmed their support of the military government's plans to hold elections in three to five months and called off future demonstrations. But they threatened to send their supporters in to the streets again if the elections are not held as promised.

The all-day policy session did not discuss one of the major political issues still undecided — whether to demand the immediate resignation of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime or allow it to stay in office and prepare the voting. Presumably this will be discussed later.

In the North, however, a demand was made for the government to step down. It was coupled with a threat of new demonstrations.

The war against the Viet Cong remained at a near standstill with the U.S. 101st Airborne and the Marines carrying the brunt of the ground effort. However, U.S. Air Force and Navy jets smashed deep into North Viet Nam on 55 missions Thursday, hitting troop barracks, oil and munition dumps, bridges and roads.

New Ambush Detector Eyed

Pentagon Hunts Special Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is giving top priority to secret research aimed at developing an ambush detector for U.S. troops in Viet Nam.

The detector would alert American G.I.'s to Viet Cong soldiers hidden in brush along a road, for example, or nestled with sniper rifles in trees.

Just how the device would work is being threshed out at the Army's Limited War Laboratory at Aberdeen, Md., a unit set up in 1962 to provide specialized war gear on a quick reaction basis for areas such as Viet Nam.

Details are cloaked for security reasons but officials say researchers seeking to perfect the detection method have been testing insects that "smell out" humans, acoustical devices that reach out some distance to pick up sounds, radar that fixes onto weapons and chemicals that reveal the slightest changes in foliage brushed by humans.

Similar research is under way on how to tell the bad guys from the good — the Viet Cong from South Vietnamese.

"We go into a village and everybody's smiling," one official explained. "But from experience we know that some of those smiling faces are Viet Cong who will come gunning for us that night. How to put the finger on those few is what we're after."

Military scientists have considered the possibility of "marking" enemy soldiers with chemicals which could be traced, or by physical means such as tattoos — but this only takes care of the known enemy. It does not ferret out the unknown — the key to the problem.

Dumping colored materials on Viet Cong infested areas by plane likewise has been rejected as unfeasible.

Laboratory workers are experimenting with or developing answers to about 70 other war problems such as finding and tracing deep tunnels by air, and detecting small boats on rivers or against the coast from long range at night.

Republicans Prime Guns for New Roadside at McNamara's Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who has spent more than 80 hours before congressional committees this year, faces more congressional questioning about bomb shortage charges and his readiness policies.

Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford said Thursday McNamara "will be asked many questions" after the House returns from its Easter recess.

Ford showed every sign of boring ahead with his charge that the Johnson administration is guilty of "shocking mismanagement" of the war effort.

He was unconvinced by McNamara's assertion that "there isn't any" shortage of bombs for the Viet Nam war and that there is no truth to the mismanagement allegation.

While Democrats, too, have challenged McNamara's readiness policies, the Republican House leader's volley had the sound of an official GOP position for the coming congressional election campaigns.

Ford kicked off the latest skirmish over readiness when he called a news conference, made his "shocking mismanagement" charge, and spoke of reports that "we are running short of bombs despite all the billions we have voted for defense."

Declared "the backup of shipping in Saigon harbor is almost a national scandal."

The GOP leader said: "The evidence that is coming to light about things in the Pentagon that are not as they should be certainly raises questions as to whether we are prepared to do what our troops were ordered to do in Viet Nam."

Several hours later McNamara held a news conference of his own at the Pentagon.

He replied: "I don't think there is any basis whatever" for charges of mismanagement or bomb shortages. "It just isn't true," he said.

The United States has 331,000 tons of bombs in its stocks around the world with 102,000 tons of this in reserve supplies in this country.

Bomb production is rising so that by June the output will

Antipoverty Chief Blames Agitators

Parley Adjourned As 'Professional' Display Erupts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver today blamed "professional demonstrators" for a hooting, shouting demonstration that drowned out part of his speech and forced an abrupt end to a convention of antipoverty workers.

"It was quite obvious that 25 or 30 people there organized themselves to create a disturbance and make trouble," the director of the administration's antipoverty program said in an interview.

A group of dissidents, who said they were spokesmen for the nation's poor, heckled Shriver as he evaluated the antipoverty program for some 500 members of the independent, privately financed Citizens' Crusade Against Poverty.

Rejecting attempts by leaders of the conference to restore order, they took control of the meeting. A number paraded to the speakers' platform and denounced Shriver, his office of Economic Opportunity and even some of the older members of the audience.

Settlement Hinted in Coal Dispute

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Report circulated today that negotiators were nearing agreement on a coal contract that could end a strike of 50,000 miners in eight states.

Unconfirmed reports said the agreement would closely follow the pact signed last Friday by the United Mine Workers and three independent operators.

The contract granted an immediate pay hike of $1.32 a day, another $1.00 a day next April and eight paid holidays instead of one—Christmas—as provided in the old contract.

Negotiators representing the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association held their first night session in Washington Thursday night since talk started Feb. 21.

The walkout started Monday. Since then some miners have returned to work but the number of strikers remains around 50,000.

One source said the walkout was triggered over the refusal of the association to sign a contract similar to the one signed by the three independent producers.

Rhodes Promises To Fix OU Airport

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes promised here Thursday night that the state will help lengthen the Ohio University airport runway on which a plane carrying university President Vernon R. Alden wrecked earlier this week.

Alden took some good-natured ribbing at the Athens Business Association's industry appreciation dinner about the mishap in which he escaped injury, but Rhodes injected a serious note.

Rhodes said he agrees the O.U. field should be lengthened to accommodate jets, and assured he will press to get this done.

Viet War Said Top Voter Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six re-elected senators agreed today that the war in Viet Nam is the dominant issue in the minds of the voters. But they differed on its likely impact at the polls.

Fresh from Easter recess campaign stints, the six reported home-front concern about rising prices, too.

"For a fellow with a dangerous opponent," said Democratic Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, "why, of course, these are dangerous issues."

Thirty-five Senate seats are at stake in November's elections. Four senators have announced they will not seek re-election, but most of the other 31 are already campaigning.

"I sense a general attitude of uncertainty," said Republican Sen. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware. "Uncertainty about the Viet Nam situation, about what inflation is going to do, about whether taxes are going up."

"Viet Nam is very much on their minds," Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, a Democrat, said of the New Hampshire voters who sent him to the Senate six years ago. "Unless we get a better picture coming out of Viet Nam, it will be very important at the polls."

McIntyre said he thinks the Asian war is likely to hurt incumbents seeking re-election to Congress, whether they are Democrats or Republicans.

The New Hampshire senator told of one woman who described his vote for Viet Nam spending as a vote to send her son to the Asian combat zone.

"Viet Nam is a matter of deep concern and worry," said Republican Sen. Jack R. Miller of Iowa. "As of now, it has not become a partisan issue." Miller said he hopes it will not.

"I think the No. 1 concern is Viet Nam," said Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala. "I believe the great majority of people in my state back the administration on this."

Sparkman said he does not think the Vietnamese war will hurt incumbents in the coming elections. In Alabama, he said,

Iraq Quiet After Death Of Chieftain

EIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The Iraqi government lifted for nine hours today the curfew it imposed after President Abdel Salam Aref was killed in a helicopter crash. Travelers arriving here from Baghdad said the Iraqi capital was calm.

Aref is to receive a state funeral Saturday. His body was flown to Baghdad Thursday night from the Persian Gulf city of Basra near which the helicopter crashed and burned in a sandstorm on Wednesday night.

The 10 persons killed in the accident with Aref were buried today. They included two cabinet ministers, five other senior government officials and the crew.

Their flag-draped coffins were driven through Baghdad's streets, Baghdad Radio said.

Acting President Abdel Rahman Bazzaz and Vice President Abdel Hakim Amer of the United Arab Republic headed the mourners. Amer arrived in Iraq Thursday at the head of an Egyptian delegation to the funerals.

Aref's brother, Maj. Gen. Abdel Rahman Aref, left Moscow for Baghdad. The army chief of staff, who is regarded as a possible successor to the presidency, was in Moscow at the head of a military delegation.

President Hailed In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) President Johnson endorsed today a proposal for him to meet with Latin-American chiefs of state to speed up the work of the Alliance for Progress.

Johnson gave a broad review of U.S. policy toward Latin America in a speech prepared for delivery at the unveiling of a statue of Abraham Lincoln in a park in Mexico City's Polanco residential section.

Referring to the summit meeting proposed by Argentine President Arturo Illia, he said, "I will in the months ahead join with Latin-American leaders in exploring the proposal for a new meeting at the very highest level to examine our common problems and to give the Alliance for Progress increased momentum."

Although warning that "any such conference should be prepared with utmost care," Johnson added that "careful preparation need not be the enemy of imaginative action."

There has been speculation recently that the U.S. President may visit South America before the end of the summer, and a summit meeting could provide the occasion for his visit.

The unveiling of the $150,000 bronze statue, which the U.S. Congress authorized as a gift to the Mexican people, was a high point of the President's hastily arranged 24-hour visit to Mexico's capital. Today is the 101st anniversary of Lincoln's assassination.

11 Members Added To Action Group

Eleven new members were added to the Pickaway County Community Action Organization Inc., during a meeting Thursday night at Circleville High School.

Officers of the organization said they were pleased with last night's turnout. The session was held specifically for securing six new members from areas that will benefit from federal funds under proposed programs.

Elected to membership were Basil Plantz, E. Ohio St.; Mrs. Charles Starkey, 369 Town St.; Mrs. Mary Jane Happeney, 655 Town St.; Mrs. Betty Burgett, Route 1, Williamsport; Mrs. Lulu Belle Young, Williamsport; Mrs. Norma Jean Linton, Route 2, Ashville; Kenneth Smith, 321 E. Ohio St.; Mrs. Mary Pence, 119 Lowery Lane; Mrs. Paul Hill, 322 Barnes Ave. Mrs. Janet Hyer, Route 1, Orient; and Mrs. Audrey Schwalbach, Route 1.

George Byrd, S. Pickaway St., was elected an institutional trustee. He replaces G. Ninde Lawson who is being transferred by Columbia Gas of Ohio.

MRS. WILLIAM HUBER, recently employed director for local programs, talked to the group on the proposed "Headstart Program" for the summer months. She noted that the project, as submitted, is being reviewed in Chicago. Approval is expected within a week or so, since the representatives from areas to be served were elected at last night's meeting.

Mrs. Huber also presented outlines of other programs that may be adopted locally to encourage federal funds for Pickaway County between now and June 30.

One of the projects under discussion was a "Work-Study Program." Potential dropouts would be employed on a part-time basis under the program Examinations will be given for patrolmen and sergeant of the police department, firemen and lieutenant of the fire department, sewage treatment plant operator, water treatment plant operator and distribution maintenance personnel for the water department.

Blank applications may be secured at the office of the civil service commission in the City Building. They must be returned no later than 4 p. m. May 5. The law requires a fee of $1 be paid where the salary exceeds $1,000 per year.

Monthly starting salaries are: Patrolmen of Police Department, $401; firemen, $369; sewage treatment plant operator, $307.70; water treatment plant operator, $297.50; distribution maintenance of water department, $306.

Applicants for firemen and patrolmen must be resident voters of Pickaway County and must be between the ages of 21 and 31 and in good physical condition.

Clear Plastic Dresses Offered

PARIS (AP) — A Paris dress designer has come within a whisker of designing himself right out of a job; presenting a line of clear plastic dresses.

"It's a joke," laughs Daniel Hatcher, the designer.

Hechter, though he insists it's all a joke, plans to sell the dresses for $2 apiece and says he already has some takers.

He has made two concessions to modesty: two horizontal bands of darker colored clear plastic above and below the midriff.

One model had on knee socks. She said they made her feel more covered.

New Vaccine May Protect Man Against Radiation

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two Cornell University scientists, with obvious excitement, today reported a possible "major scientific breakthrough" towards protecting humans and animals against lethal doses of radiation such as might be released in nuclear warfare.

They reported they've developed a kind of vaccine — from a chemical derived from the Oriental, weedlike "jackbean" plant — and that it immunizes a large majority of mice against such doses, in much the same way a person is inoculated against an infectious disease.

They said it could open the way not only to protecting whole populations months in advance against the effects of radioactive fallout from exploding nuclear bombs in time of war, but also to:

— Inoculating atomic industry workers and the crews of nuclear submarines against possible lethal or injury effects of "nuclear runaways" or other radiation accidents.

— Allowing much larger doses by local civic and governmental operations such as the schools, library and courthouse.

Robert L. Brehmer Jr. said the program would be aimed at high school students who are forced to quit school in order to contribute to the support of their mother, father or other members of the family.

According to guidelines received by the local committee, the place of employment, such as the school, would pay only 10 percent of the wages. The government would pay the remaining 90 percent.

Another program discussed was a remedial project for adults, as well as students, who have dropped out of school and would like an opportunity to study and eventually receive a high school diploma.

THE VARIOUS proposals will be studied by a committee. Spokesmen said two or three that would benefit the most people locally will be recommended for adoption.

After adoption, the proposals will be submitted to the governmental office for approval.

Viet Buddhists Again OK Plans For Elections

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders in Saigon today reaffirmed their support of the military government's plans to hold elections in three to five months and called off future demonstrations. But they threatened to send their supporters in to the streets again if the elections are not held as promised.

The all-day policy session did not discuss one of the major political issues still undecided — whether to demand the immediate resignation of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime or allow it to stay in office and

However, U.S. Air Force and Navy jets smashed deep into North Viet Nam on 55 missions Thursday, hitting troop barracks, oil and munition dumps, bridges and roads.

The planes also caught several trucks near the Mu Gia Pass an infiltration route to the South where B52s created huge land-slides earlier this week.

Two U.S. B57 jet bombers collided over water near Da Nang but the crewmen ejected safely. The U.S. military announced that 306 planes had been lost over North and South Viet Nam up to last Tuesday, an increase of seven since the last report 14 days ago.

A call for an immediate change of leadership came from Ky's military rival, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, whose ouster as 1st Corps commander a month ago set off the wave of unrest. Thi told a newsmen in Da Nang: "We must have an immediate change of government. There must be a government of the people supported by the people. I don't think the people have confidence in the government of Premier Ky."

A council of 10 influential monks met at the Buddhist Institute in Saigon to thrash out the next move in a campaign that has so far forced the government to yield to most of the Buddhist demands.

A spokesman denied that the council had already demanded Ky's resignation. He said it still had not decided whether to seek

Ohio's Dem Chief Urged To Resign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Paul J. Lynch, opposing Democratic State Chairman William L. Coleman for lieutenant governor nomination, said today Coleman "has again embarrassed the national administration by his inept performance as a political leader."

Coleman is in the process of laying an egg in connection with the Midwest Democratic Conference under way here, Lynch said in a release.

"This evening Ambassador (Averell) Harriman is scheduled to address the conference," Lynch noted. "A month ago Chairman Coleman publicly promised that 1,500 Ohio Democrats would pay $50 a plate to attend the dinner. As of Thursday noon, reliable sources reported only 10 per cent of those tickets had been sold, including less than 25 in Franklin County."

"Unless Mr. Coleman gives away a lot of free tickets to-day," Lynch continued, "Ambassador Harriman will speak to a mighty sparse group. At any rate, the dinner will be a failure as a fund raise."

"Mr. Coleman would do well to announce his retirement from the state chairmanship this evening. Nothing else could bring much joy to what otherwise promises to be a dismal flop," Lynch concluded.

George Byrd, S. Pickaway St., was elected an institutional trustee. He replaces G. Nide Lawson who is being transferred by Columbia Gas of Ohio.

MRS. WILLIAM HUBER, recently employed director for local programs, talked to the group on the proposed "Headstart Program" for the summer months. She noted that the project, as submitted, is being reviewed in Chicago. Approval is expected within a week or so, since the representatives from areas to be served were elected at last night's meeting.

Mrs. Huber also presented outlines of other programs that may be adopted locally to encumber federal funds for Pickaway County between now and June 30.

One of the projects under discussion was a "Work-Study Program." Potential dropouts would be employed on a part-time basis under the program

Clear Plastic Dresses Offered

PARIS (AP) — A Paris dress designer has come within a whisker of designing himself right out of a job: presenting a line of clear plastic dresses.

"It's a joke," laughs Daniel Hatcher, the designer.

Hechter, though he insists it's all a joke, plans to sell the dresses for $2 apiece and says he already has some takers.

He has made two concessions to modesty: two horizontal bands of darker colored clear plastic above and below the midriff.

One model had on knee socks. She said they made her feel more covered.

New Vaccine May Protect Man Against Radiation

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two Cornell University scientists, with obvious excitement, today reported a possible "major scientific breakthrough" towards protecting humans and animals against lethal doses of radiation such as might be released in nuclear warfare.

They reported they've developed a kind of vaccine — from a chemical derived from the Oriental, weedlike "jackbean" plant — and that it immunizes a large majority of mice against such doses, in much the same way a person is inoculated against an infectious disease.

They said it could open the way not only to protecting whole populations months in advance against the effects of radioactive fallout from exploding nuclear bombs in time of war, but also to:

— Inoculating atomic industry workers and the crews of nuclear submarines against possible lethal or injury effects of "nuclear runaways" or other radiation accidents.

—Allowing much larger doses of radiation to be used in treating cancers than are now employed because of fear of damaging normal tissue.

"The possibilities in both times of war and peace are tremendous," said Dr. Willard J. Visek, a member of the research team, in a report prepared for the 30th convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Coauthor of the report was Dr. Hung Chen Dang. They amplified on their technical report at a news conference.

Visek cautioned at the news conference that he and his colleagues still could be proved wrong in the concept underlying their venture — and that the whole idea might fail to have practical application for man.

But he added that experiments extending over several years, involving more than 600 test animals — together with some clinical research in humans on a related concept, although not involving radiation protection — convinces him they're on the right track.

New Ambush Detector Eyed

Pentagon Hunts Special Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is giving top priority to secret research aimed at developing an ambush detector for U.S. troops in Viet Nam.

The detector would alert American GI's to Viet Cong soldiers hidden in brush along a road, for example, or nestled with sniper rifles in trees.

Just how the device would work is being thrashed out at the Army's Limited War Laboratory at Aberdeen, Md., a unit set up in 1962 to provide specialized war gear on a quick reaction basis for areas such as Viet Nam.

Details are cloaked for security reasons but officials say researchers seeking to perfect the detection method have been testing insects that "smell out" humans, acoustical devices that reach out some distance to pick up sounds, radar that fixes onto weapons and chemicals that reveal the slightest changes in foliage brushed by humans.

Similar research is under way on how to tell the bad guys from the good — the Viet Cong from South Vietnamese.

"We go into a village and everybody's smiling," one official explained. "But from experience we know that some of those smiling faces are Viet Cong who will come gunning for us that night. How to put the finger on those few is what we're after."

Military scientists have considered the possibility of "marking" enemy soldiers with chemicals which could be traced, or by physical means such as tattoos — but this only takes care of the known enemy. It does not ferret out the unknown — the key to the problem.

Dumping colored materials on Viet Cong infested areas by plane likewise has been rejected as unfeasible.

Laboratory workers are experimenting with or developing answers to about 70 other war problems such as finding and tracing deep tunnels by air, and detecting small boats on rivers or against the coast from long range at night.

Republicans Prime Guns for New Broadside at McNamara's Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who has spent more than 80 hours before congressional committees this year, faces more congressional questioning about bomb shortage charges and his readiness policies.

Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford said Thursday McNamara "will be asked many questions" after the House returns from its Easter recess.

Ford showed every sign of boring ahead with his charge that the Johnson administration is guilty of "shocking mismanagement" of the war effort.

He was unconvinced by McNamara's assertion that "there isn't any" shortage of bombs for the Viet Nam war and that there is no truth to the mismanagement allegation.

While Democrats, too, have challenged McNamara's readiness policies, the Republican House leader's volley had the sound of an official GOP position for the coming congressional election campaigns.

Ford kicked off the latest skirmish over readiness when he called a news conference, made his "shocking mismanagement" charge, and:

Spoke of reports that "we are running short of bombs despite all the billions we have voted for defense."

Declared "the backup of shipping in Saigon harbor is almost a national scandal."

The GOP leader said: "The evidence that is coming to light about things in the Pentagon that are not as they should be certainly raises questions as to whether we are prepared to do what our troops were ordered to do in Viet Nam."

Several hours later McNamara held a news conference of his own at the Pentagon.

He replied: "I don't think there is any basis whatever" for charges of mismanagement or bomb shortages. "It just isn't true," he said.

The United States has 331,000 tons of bombs in its stocks around the world with 102,000 tons of this in reserve supplies in this country.

Bomb production is rising so that by June the output will

Part of Ohio To Alter Time

Daylight Savings In Effect April 24

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Part of Ohio goes on Daylight Saving Time Sunday, April 24 with residents of 240 Ohio communities generally in the north-eastern and eastern sections of the state affected by the change.

The areas going on daylight time will turn their clocks and watches ahead one hour at midnight Saturday, April 23.

The compilation of communities affected was made by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with local chambers throughout the state.

This will mark the last year the Chamber will make the survey because of federal legislation which will require that communities observing Daylight Saving Time in 1967 to do so on a statewide basis or remain on Eastern Standard Time. Ohio's Legislature must face that issue next year.

Principal area affected by the time change is, roughly, east of Vermilion in Lorain County and southward to Washington County (Marietta) on the Ohio River. Chesapeake and other small communities in eastern Lawrence County also will change time.

All Ohio communities observing Daylight Saving Time this year will return to standard time on Sunday, Oct. 30.

There'll be at least one quirk in the time changeover — in Barnesville, Belmont County, businesses and financial institutions will observe Daylight Saving Time, while schools and city government will remain on Eastern Standard Time. This is the only community in the state to observe Daylight Saving Time in this manner, the state Chamber said.

dering welcome Thursday night which left Johnson a bit weary but exhilarated. Today he mixed more public appearances and private talks with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz at Los Pinos, the Mexican White House.

Johnson in his speech declared, "We are engaged in a vast social revolution touching the lives of millions of peoples on two continents."

"Like Lincoln's this is a test of whether freedom can work."

"It is a test of whether men in liberty can overcome the weight of the past and lift from their brothers the blight of hunger, the blindness of ignorance and the burden of disease. We are in the midst of that test."

Johnson said his administration "will not be deterred by those, whether in the United States or in Latin America, who tenaciously or selfishly cling to the stultifying privileges of the past. We will not be deterred by those who say that to risk change is to risk communism."

In other major points, Johnson said:

"The United States will continue to concentrate assistance mainly in economic and social fields 'and to encourage our Latin-American neighbors, where possible, to limit their outlays for military purposes.'"

"The United States will continue to work to stabilize earnings of traditional Latin-American exports 'while assisting efforts to expand those new exports on which Latin-American trade will increasingly depend.'"

"Latin-American economic integration is vital to hemispheric development."

"The United States is committed 'to government by the consent of the governed — a consent to be granted in free and honest elections. It does not seek to impose on others any form of government. But let us stand determined in this principle: Despotism are not welcome in this hemisphere.'"

Johnson said that one ambition of his presidency is to work with other hemispheric nations to close the several hundred miles of the Darien Road gap in Panama and Colombia.

Once this gap in the Pan-American Highway system is closed, the system will run some 14,000 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, to the southern part of Chile and Argentina.

Johnson had warm praise for Mexico, saying its progress is witness that the goal of the Alliance for Progress are realistic and its methods valid. He said Mexico is a nation confident it can continually increase the economic well-being and social justice for its people, help less advanced neighbors, and "confident you can maintain in the modern world your own personality — loyal to your own traditions and aspirations."

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources announced today that the name of Clear Fork State Park in Ashland County, near Loudonville, has been changed to Mohican State Park.

Fred E. Morr, department director, said the change was made because the public was confused about two recreation areas in the same general location, Clearfork Reservoir, operated by the City of Mansfield, near Lexington, and Clear Fork State Park.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Robert B. Redman, 13, was accidentally hanged Thursday while playing in a barn at his uncle's farm. Deputies said the boy evidently slipped from a bale of straw and somehow was hanged on a rope.

He had been living with the uncle, Paul Reeder, on the farm near Shelby. A cousin, Debbie Reeder, found him.

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Bernard Glazer was identified today as the Johannesburg millionaire who paid $196,000 ransom two weeks ago for the return of his kidnapped wife and infant son.

Glazer is a real estate tycoon. Police made public his identity for the first time as three brothers were scheduled to appear in court in Johannesburg in connection with the kidnapping.

Security Police Chief Brig. Van Den Bergh said a total of $185,000 of the ransom money has been recovered so far.

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Nearly 31 years ago George H. Weyerhaeuser was abducted and held for ransom in a sensational kidnapping case in Tacoma, Wash.

He was released a week later after his parents paid $200,000 ransom. Three persons were convicted of the crime.

Weyerhaeuser was nine years old then.

Thursday he was elected president of the Weyerhaeuser Co., a big lumber and wood products firm.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The son of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa has won a State Senate research position in Lansing, Mich.

James R. Hoffa Jr., 24, was one of nine students appointed to the legislative job, which pays $5,000 a year. The winners were chosen on the basis of academic records.

Young Hoffa, whose father reached only the ninth grade in school, receives a law degree this month at the University of Michigan.

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — William J. Dermody, believed to be the oldest man in Utah, celebrated his 102nd birthday today at Ogden where he has lived since 1881.

Dermody is listed as the oldest pensioner of the Western Union Telegraph Co. He went to work for Western Union as a boy in Mount Vernon, Ohio, his home town. He became a telegraph operator before deciding to head for San Francisco to catch a ship for the South African mines. He got as far as Ogden.

Hilda Erickson, 107, of Grantsville, is listed as the oldest woman in Utah.

said he represented Youth In Action of the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, N.Y.

As Shriver was escorted out of the room, Barbara Taylor of Washington's Southeast House yelled at him: "It's just a big publicity deal. He isn't helping the poor. He's just getting his picture in the paper."

Civil Rights leader Bayard Rustin, an officer of the citizens' organization, was among those who tried unsuccessfully to control the situation. So did Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church and general secretary-elect of the World Council of Churches, who is a vice chairman of the Crusade.

Blake finally adjourned the meeting two hours after Shriver's speech when it became apparent parliamentary procedure could not be restored and several members of the citizens group, including the industrial union department of the AFL-CIO, threatened to quit the organization in protest.

Rustin was the first official to say the outbursts against Shriver were planned.

"This was not a spontaneous demonstration," he told a news conference. "Some of the people shouting about the poor participating were not poor but have a vested interest. And some members came into the meeting with a sheet that was printed several hours before."

But Blake said: "Some of us have been saying for a long time the poverty program is in a crucial stage. What happened today merely underlines it."

"There is a tremendous amount of frustration among the people. It is not a frustration against Shriver, or the OEO, or anyone else or any organization trying to help them."

"It is a frustration against the slowness of an affluent society to spread its prosperity among all the people."

Gary O'Hara New Officer

Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple today announced Gary O'Hara, E. Franklin St., will begin duty as a special officer with the city force.

O'Hara is scheduled to work the afternoon shift, Temple reported. However, the chief anticipates several shift changes in May.

O'Hara is a native of Salt Creek Twp. Married, he is the father of one child.

Temple said both O'Hara and Arthur Finley, who was employed as a special officer with the department in March, plan to take the civil service examination for patrolmen May 9.

Cancer Crusade Ready for Start

"Fight Cancer with a Check and a Check-up" is the theme for this year's Cancer Crusade.

The campaign here officially will start Sunday and extend through the following Sunday. Officers and workers of the Pickaway County Chapter, American Cancer Society, have been busy the past several weeks prepping for the countywide crusade.

The Pickaway unit, in its effort to secure local support, has listed several reasons why public contributions are so essential in the constant battle against cancer. They are:

1. Part of the donations makes possible the research which has saved 1,400,000 Americans, and

2. A portion of the donations serves those in Pickaway County already afflicted with cancer; the local unit can provide medication, dressings, transportation to hospitals and clinics and the use of sick room equipment for Pickaway patients;

3. Contributions make available educational films and literature to promote better understanding of cancer and its treatment.

Dr. Don B. Schiewetz, chairman of the local campaign, explained that without public help in the past, none of these programs would have been possible. He, along with his co-workers, noted that without public support they could not be continued.

Volunteer workers are scheduled to make a community canvass throughout next week in a concentrated program to produce funds that will finance the fight against the disease. Their reminder is: "no cancer ever cured itself."

Father of 8 Gets Call from Draft

DETROIT (AP) — Victor G. Distefano, a father of eight, was notified today he will not be drafted for military service as a male nurse.

The notification came from the office of U.S. Rep William D. Ford, D-Mich.

Ford's office said it had been assured by Distefano's draft board in Brooklyn, N. Y., that he would be reclassified from 1A, eligible, to 2A, deferred because of children.

Distefano, 34, was notified last week that he faced callup because he was a qualified male nurse and there was a shortage of women nurses.

He was rejected for service 10 years ago because he had two children.

Half of Mongolia's males were Buddhist monks until 1921 when a Russian-aided revolution overthrew Chinese rule.

Surviving are her husband, Homer, one son, Brady Pierce, Somerset, O.; six grandchildren; one great-grandchild; one brother, Frank Wiseman, McDermott, O.; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Lagore, 132 Mingo St.; Mrs. Viola Scott, Portsmouth.

Services will be 2 p. m. Sunday in the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home. Burial will be in Dutch Hollow Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 1 p. m. Saturday.

Part of Ohio To Alter Time

Daylight Savings In Effect April 24

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Part of Ohio goes on Daylight Saving Time Sunday, April 24 with residents of 240 Ohio communities generally in the north-eastern and eastern sections of the state affected by the change.

The areas going on daylight time will turn their clocks and watches ahead one hour at midnight Saturday, April 23.

The compilation of communities affected was made by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with local chambers throughout the state.

This will mark the last year the Chamber will make the survey because of federal legislation which will require that communities observing Daylight Saving Time in 1967 to do so on a statewide basis or remain on Eastern Standard Time. Ohio's Legislature must face that issue next year.

Principal area affected by the time change is, roughly, east of Vermilion in Lorain County and southward to Washington County (Marietta) on the Ohio River. Chesapeake and other small communities in eastern Lawrence County also will change time.

All Ohio communities observing Daylight Saving Time this year will return to standard time on Sunday, Oct. 30.

There'll be at least one quirk in the time changeover — in Barnesville, Belmont County, businesses and financial institutions will observe Daylight Saving Time, while schools and city government will remain on Eastern Standard Time. This is the only community in the state to observe Daylight Saving Time in this manner, the state Chamber said.

Speedup Urged

dering welcome Thursday night which left Johnson a bit weary but exhilarated. Today he mixed more public appearances and private talks with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz at Los Pinos, the Mexican White House.

Johnson in his speech declared, "We are engaged in a vast social revolution touching the lives of millions of peoples on two continents."

"Like Lincoln's this is a test of whether freedom can work."

"It is a test of whether men in liberty can overcome the weight of the past and lift from their brothers the blight of hunger, the blindness of ignorance and the burden of disease. We are in the midst of that test."

Johnson said his administration "will not be deterred by those, whether in the United States or in Latin America, who tenaciously or selfishly cling to the stultifying privileges from the past. We will not be deterred by those who say that to risk change is to risk communism."

In other major points, Johnson said:

—The United States will continue to concentrate assistance mainly in economic and social fields "and to encourage our Latin-American neighbors, where possible, to limit their outlays for military purposes."

—The United States will continue to work to stabilize earnings of traditional Latin-American exports "while assisting efforts to expand those new exports on which Latin-American trade will increasingly depend."

—Latin-American economic integration is vital to hemispheric development.

—The United States is committed "to government by the consent of the governed — a consent to be granted in free and honest elections. It does not seek to impose on others any form of government. But let us stand determined in this principle: Despotisms are not welcome in this hemisphere."

Johnson said that one ambition of his presidency is to work with other hemisphere nations to close the several hundred miles of the Darien Road gap in Panama and Colombia.

Once this gap in the Pan-American Highway system is closed, the system will run some 14,000 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, to the southern part of Chile and Argentina.

Johnson had warm praise for Mexico, saying its progress is witness that the goal of the Alliance for Progress are realistic and its methods valid. He said Mexico is a nation confident it can continually increase the economic well-being and social justice for its people, help less advanced neighbors, and "confident you can maintain in the modern world your own personality — loyal to your own traditions and aspirations."

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources announced today that the name of Clear Fork State Park in Ashland County, near Loudonville, has been changed to Mohican State Park.

Fred E. Morr, department director, said the change was made because the public was confused about two recreation areas in the same general location, Clearfork Reservoir, operated by the City of Mansfield, near Lexington, and Clear Fork State Park.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Robert B. Redman, 13, was accidentally hanged Thursday while playing in a barn at his uncle's farm. Deputies said the boy evidently slipped from a bale of straw and somehow was hanged on a rope.

He had been living with the uncle, Paul Reeder, on the farm near Shelby. A cousin, Debbie Reeder, found him.

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Bernard Glazer was identified today as the Johannesburg millionaire who paid $196,000 ransom two weeks ago for the return of his kidnapped wife and infant son.

Glazer is a real estate tycoon. Police made public his identity for the first time as three brothers were scheduled to appear in court in Johannesburg in connection with the kidnapping.

Security Police Chief Brig. Van Den Bergh said a total of $185,000 of the ransom money has been recovered so far.

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Nearly 31 years ago George H. Weyerhaeuser was abducted and held for ransom in a sensational kidnapping case in Tacoma, Wash.

He was released a week later after his parents paid $200,000 ransom. Three persons were convicted of the crime.

Weyerhaeuser was nine years old then.

Thursday he was elected president of the Weyerhaeuser Co., a big lumber and wood products firm.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The son of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa has won a State Senate research position in Lansing, Mich.

James R. Hoffa Jr., 24, was one of nine students appointed to the legislative job, which pays $5,000 a year. The winners were chosen on the basis of academic records.

Young Hoffa, whose father reached only the ninth grade in school, receives a law degree this month at the University of Michigan.

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — William J. Dermody, believed to be the oldest man in Utah, celebrated his 102nd birthday today at Ogden where he has lived since 1881.

Dermody is listed as the oldest pensioner of the Western Union Telegraph Co. He went to work for Western Union as a boy in Mount Vernon, Ohio, his home town. He became a telegraph operator before deciding to head for San Francisco to catch a ship for the South African mines. He got as far as Ogden.

Hilda Erickson, 107, of Grantsville, is listed as the oldest woman in Utah.

Antipoverty

said he represented Youth In Action of the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, N.Y.

As Shriver was escorted out of the room, Barbara Taylor of Washington's Southeast House yelled at him: "It's just a big publicity deal. He isn't helping the poor. He's just getting his picture in the paper."

Civil Rights leader Bayard Rustin, an officer of the citizens' organization, was among those who tried unsuccessfully to control the situation. So did Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, state clerk of the United Presbyterian Church and general secretary-elect of the World Council of Churches, who is a vice chairman of the Crusade.

Blake finally adjourned the meeting two hours after Shriver's speech when it became apparent parliamentary procedure could not be estored and several members of the citizens group, including the industrial union department of the AFL-CIO, threatened to quit the organization in protest.

Rustin was the first official to say the outbursts against Shriver were planned.

"This was not a spontaneous demonstration," he told a news conference. "Some of the people shouting about the poor participating were not poor but have a vested interest. And some members came into the meeting with a shot that was printed several hours before."

But Blake said: "Some of us have been saying for a long time the poverty program is in a crucial stage. What happened today merely underlines it."

"There is a tremendous amount of frustration among the people. It is not a frustration against Shriver, or the OEO, or anyone else or any organization trying to help them."

"It is a frustration against the slowness of an affluent society to spread its prosperity among all the people."

Gary O'Hara New Officer

Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple today announced Gary O'Hara, E. Franklin St., will begin duty as a police officer with the city force.

O'Hara is scheduled to work the afternoon shift, Temple reported. However, the chief anticipates several shift changes in May.

O'Hara is a native of Salt Creek Twp. Married, he is the father of one child.

Temple said both O'Hara and Arthur Finley, who was employed as a special officer with the department in March, plan to take the civil service examination for patrolmen May 9.

CFD Answers Call At LE Village
The Circleville Fire Department was called to the home of George Kiser in Logan Elm Village at 7:50 a. m. today when a furnace motor became overheated.

Damage was estimated at $25 by firemen.

Cancer Crusade Ready for Start

"Fight Cancer with a Check and a Check-up" is the theme for this year's Cancer Crusade.

The campaign here officially will start Sunday and extend through the following Sunday. Officers and workers of the Pickaway County Chapter, American Cancer Society, have been busy the past several weeks prepping for the countywide crusade.

The Pickaway unit, in its effort to secure local support, has listed several reasons why public contributions are so essential in the constant battle against cancer. They are:

1. Part of the donations makes possible the research which has saved 1,400,000 Americans, and which someday may wipe out the dreaded killer;

2. A portion of the donations serves those in Pickaway County already afflicted with cancer; the local unit can provide medication, dressings, transportation to hospitals and clinics and the use of sick room equipment for Pickaway patients;

3. Contributions make available educational films and literature to promote better understanding of cancer and its treatment.

Dr. Don B. Schiewetz, chairman of the local campaign, explained that without public help in the past, none of these programs would have been possible. He, along with his co-workers, noted that without public support they could not be continued.

Volunteer workers are scheduled to make a community canvass throughout next week in a concentrated program to produce funds that will finance the fight against the disease. Their reminder is: "no cancer ever cured itself."

Father of 8 Gets Call from Draft

DETROIT (AP) — Victor G. Distefano, a father of eight, was notified today he will not be drafted for military service as a male nurse.

The notification came from the office of U.S. Rep William D. Ford, D-Mich.

Ford's office said it had been assured by Distefano's draft board in Brooklyn, N. Y., that he would be reclassified from 1A, eligible, to 2A, deferred because of children.

Distefano, 34, was notified last week that he faced callup because he was a qualified male nurse and there was a shortage of women nurses.

He was rejected for service 10 years ago because he had two children.

Half of Mongolia's males were Buddhist monks until 1921 when a Russian-aided revolution overthrew Chinese rule.

Puppy Love Is Soulful Suffering

NEW YORK (AP)—"Him? I didn't think you even knew he existed, Ellen." "Really, Jason, I don't think you even know what love means." These are a couple of remarks I heard my daughter, Tracy Ann, make recently over the telephone, an instrument which has become so firmly attached to her ear that I am thinking of having it removed by surgical means. I am not a parent who believes in eavesdropping but kids today bellow their secrets into a phone so loud you can hear them all over the house. What do 12-year-old kids talk about? Well, believe it or not, they talk about each other. Does Judy like Rodger? What does Susie see in Spencer? And how about Dick and Christine? The other night, with both a radio and television set turned on, my daughter sat and talked over the phone with a chum about the antics of a seventh-grade Romeo for exactly an hour and 15 minutes. Finally, I went into her room and broke up the conversation. "What on earth are you doing?" I demanded. Tracy Ann pointed at an American history book open on her lap. "Studying the Monroe Doctrine," she replied. "While listening to the radio, watching television, and talking on the phone?" "Yup." I noticed six boys' names written on her small blackboard, and asked who they were. "My boy friends." "Only six?" I inquired with heavy sarcasm. "Oh, I've got lots more," she said airily. "But those are the ones I like best—now." I went out and grumbled to my wife. "Oh, dry up, Rover," said Frances. "Let her alone. She's still in the puppy love stage." Puppy love? Oh, no. No, indeed. Whatever this jabberwocky over the telephone between small fry amounts to, it isn't puppy love. Not real puppy love, anyway. Real puppy love isn't noisy and carefree and gossipy. Real puppy love is solitary, silent, soulful suffering—the spirit laid bare and huddling and helpless to cure its own agony. I remembered then my own case of puppy love in the seventh grade. I wrote not six names on a blackboard, but one in my heart. She was a girl half a head taller than I, and I sold newspapers on the streets for days to save up enough to buy her a box of Valentine candy, and she promptly gave a piece to the tallest boy in the class. This boy was my best friend and I sat in the row between him and her, and I had to pass back and forth the notes they wrote each other and I never read a line. I have had to do some bitter chores in my life since then, but none that ever degraded me more or left me more forlorn. Well, he grew up and died, and she grew up and married, and I grew up and moved away. And I never really told her that I loved her, and I never will. All this happened back in 1918, and so far as I know puppy love has been going downhill ever since. They don't have men in the seventh grade anymore who can stand up to its torture. Six names on a blackboard—Ha! Child's play. But I guess it's better that way.

The Business World

By JOHN T. CUNTUFF
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The dramatic encounter in recent months over wage-price guideposts seemingly always have ended in victory for the administration and defeat — and price rollbacks — for business. But is it so? In the immediate conflict business has been the loser. But there is evidence business learned quickly how to get its way while apparently observing the guidelines. This has been done by mixing price cuts with price advances, by making increases small, by making no announcements of increases, by dealing with customers individually, by maintaining the old price list but putting more of the transportation burden on the buyer and by eliminating discounts. In addition, an attempt at a price or wage increase, publicly announced, has a good chance of attracting no reprisal from Washington. The administration has been selective. Some increases get by. Early in March, U.S. Steel Co. boosted prices on a big tonnage item, steel plate, by an average of $292 a ton. At the same time it cut prices on another product it said could be substituted. U.S. Steel called the net result of "standoff." And Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, commented: "In the Council's judgment, relative price adjustments can contribute to economic efficiency when they take place within a framework of price stability." But was it a standoff? Although the increase — decrease arrangement could confuse an electronic computer — U.S. Steel tossed away its price lists for some nails and a type of wire rod and decided to negotiate prices instead — some observers now feel the full impact was an increase. For one thing, the increase in the total price of steel caused by U.S. Steel's price rise seems to be of the same magnitude as would have been caused by Bethlehem Steel Co. abortive attempt to raise prices Jan. 1. For another, the price decrease on sheet steel — which U.S. Steel hoped could be made without the purchase of costly new machinery by the buyer. Wages also have gone beyond the guideposts. The Labor Department said major 1965 wage increases averaged 3.9 per cent, the highest since the guideposts were established. Some evidence exists, then to suggest that the power of the guideposts isn't as dramatic as exhibited in the dramatic rollback of prices in aluminum and steel. The effect, in fact, may be more psychological than actual. Next: Criticism.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
The 65-member Ashville-Harrison Concert Band was to present its State Contest selection at the Ashville PTA meeting.

Circleville Art League planned its annual Spring Show beginning Sunday in the lobby of the Courthouse.

Williamsport High School girls' athletic achievements were recognized at the Athletic Banquet held in the gymnasium.

TEN YEARS AGO
Plans were made for a style show for the annual spring luncheon of the Women's Golf Assn. at the Thursday Ladies Day meeting of the Pickaway Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lake, Pontious Lane, were hosts for a covered dish dinner of the Good Samaritan Class of the Nazarene Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Perdion,

Elm Ave., returned after spending a few days in New York City, N.Y.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
The Circleville High School Band was to host the annual band festival of the Central Ohio High School Band Association.

The magnolia tree at the Courthouse was in full bloom for the first time in several years as it had not been caught by the frost because of its early flowering date.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Atwell of Chillicothe were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Neuding and Miss Lucille Neuding of E. Main St.

Married men also rated highest in being satisfied with their jobs. Apparently, having two bosses is better than having just one.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The snorer blissfully continues his nightly concert of cacophony unaffected by the sleeplessness of his audience. Something should be done about it. Laws should be passed. Soundproof snoring cabinets should be invented. Snoring should be a valid reason for divorce.

These are a few of the pathetic pleas of those who beg for a quiet night of sleep without the periodic awakening by a cavernous snore.

The snore can be the gentle but persistent whistle of a flute, a mellow note of a violin, the thunderous roar of an organ. The rate, rhythm and variety of sounds truly can be called "chamber music."

Not much is known about this distressing condition that affects the lives of 25 million people in the United States alone.

Snoring is truly a vast epidemic social "disease."

The one thing known about snoring is the fact that noise is produced when the muscles of the jaw, tongue, palate and throat are relaxed and air passes over them and causes the delicate tissues to "flap in the wind."

Snoring is not the private possession of mouth breathers. The sounds may be different but nose breathers are snoreful sleepers, too.

In children large masses of adenoids are the most common offenders. Foreign bodies, a high arched palate and nasal allergies can be important reasons for snoring.

In adults, polyps, a deviated septum, poorly fitted dentures, allergic rhinitis and obesity may be the cause.

With so many possibilities, it becomes imperative to seek the underlying cause. Unfortunately, this is not always possible.

If no underlying cause is found and the noise is unbearable, gadgets are created to "stop the racket."

Hundreds of ingenious anti-snoring devices have been devised to keep the snorer off his back, to keep his tongue from falling back, to keep the mouth shut and to keep the chin from falling down.

Chin straps vary from simple elastic to sequin covered, hand embroidered ones.

Rubber masks, adhesive tapes and complex metallic devices keep the chin up.

Ear plugs for the unwilling listener may help but usually are inadequate. Squeaking rubber balls attached to the back of the neck wakes the snorer when he lies on it.

The trouble with this is that the snorer tranquilly sleeps through this noise while the listener has an additional one to cope with.

Could it be coincidence that most of the scientists engaged in the study of snoring are said to be married to a person that snores?

Cut toenails squarely to avoid cuts and the possibility of infection.

A Good Idea

It almost flabbergasts me to admit it, but Senator J. William Fulbright, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, started talking common sense the other day. Oh, it wasn't anything he had to say about Ho Chi Minh, or Mao Tse-tung, or Fidel Castro, whose motives he has never been able to fathom. The common sense emerged, like a crocus sticking its head above ground after a long winter, when Bill Fulbright practically told Foreign Aid Administrator David Bell that this business of direct government-to-government aid was a bad thing, and that in lending money for overseas development it would be a far better arrangement if U. S. funds were to go through "third party" international institutions such as the World Bank.

It so happened that the very day on which the Arkansas Senator was complaining that government-to-government grants and loans had "unfortunate side effects" in identifying the U.S. with rulers who might be anything but popular with their peoples, some fifty faculty members of Delhi University in India complained about President Lyndon Johnson's proposal that an Indian-American educational foundation be set up with the $300 million in rupees which the U. S. has on deposit in Indian banks. This vast sum of money has accumulated through the sale of American foodstuffs under the U. S. Food for Peace program, and it cannot be taken out of the country. Something must be done with it inside India, but the Delhi professors don't want to see official U. S. government involvement in a foundation created to educate Indians.

The head of Delhi University's faculty of arts, Dean R. K. Dasgupta, hastened to add that he did not ascribe any evil motives to Americans. "After all," he said, "the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations have been very helpful here." What bothers Dean Dasgupta is the chance that "if American officials control the disbursement of these huge amounts of money, then they also will inevitably influence educational policy."

Having just spent a couple of weeks in Mexico, I am in a good position to appreciate the wisdom of Fulbright's criticism of direct government-to-government aid. Like the South Vietnamese, or the Indians, the Mexican politicians don't mind taking money. But they don't want to stand before their constituents as being "bought" by that money.

The most satisfactory U. S. loans to Mexico at the moment are routed through Mexican private banks to individual farmers who happen to be small proprietors with some security to put up for the money. The money may originate with the U. S. government, but it is passed on at six percent through private banking channels to the "pequeños propietarios" without bringing Mexican politicians into the act. The private banks, as it was described to me, insisted that each loan be supervised by an experienced "agronomo," who insists that it be applied to individual projects that promise a profit. Some of the loans, which average $2,500, have enabled small farmers to double their income within a year. Since the money passes out of official U. S. government hands into private banking hands before it becomes individual working capital, the likelihood of any one yelling about "Yankee domination" is thereby considerably reduced.

Fulbright's motion to remove the bilateral "government-to-government" aspect from lending to Latin America might be construed in such a way that the Agency for International Development would be prevented from making direct loans of any kind, even though in the end they are administered by private banks. As I write, the report is that the Agency for International Development would, in most instances, be compelled to lend through such world institutions as the World Bank. In the case of Latin America, any loans would have to meet with the approval of the Inter-American Committee of the Alliance for Progress. But this would get the "nationalist" government-to-government flavor out of the transactions. It would mean that the U. S. would not be held responsible for the behavior of the regimes that eventually got the money. It would also forestall criticism about Yankee domination of foreign governments.

So this time Fulbright has what looks like a good idea. Since this column is always looking for reasons to commend even those whom it must ordinarily criticize, let us salute the Senator for being fully bright for a change.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Him? I didn't think you even knew he existed, Ellen."

"Really, Jason, I don't think you even know what love means."

These are a couple of remarks I heard my daughter, Tracy Ann, make recently over the telephone, an instrument which has become so firmly attached to her ear that I am thinking of having it removed by surgical means.

I am not a parent who believes in eavesdropping but kids today bellow their secrets into a phone so loud you can hear them all over the house.

What do 12-year-old kids talk about? Well, believe it or not, they talk about each other.

Does Judy like Roger? What does Susie see in Spencer? And how about Dick and Christine?

The other night, with both a radio and television set turned on, my daughter sat and talked over the phone with a chum about the antics of a seventh-grade Romeo for exactly an hour and 15 minutes. Finally, I went into her room and broke up the conversation.

"What on earth are you doing?" I demanded.

Tracy Ann pointed at an American history book open on her lap.

"Studying the Monroe Doctrine," she replied.

"While listening to the radio, watching television, and talking on the phone?"

"Yup."

I noticed six boys' names written on her small blackboard, and asked who they were.

"My boy friends."

"Only six?" I inquired with heavy sarcasm.

"Oh, I've got lots more," she said airily. "But those are the ones I like best—now."

I went out and grumbled to my wife.

"Oh, dry up, Rover," said Frances. "Let her alone. She's still in the puppy love stage."

Puppy love? Oh, no. No, indeed. Whatever this jabberwocky over the telephone between small fry amounts to, it isn't puppy love.

Not real puppy love, anyway. Real puppy love isn't noisy and carefree and gossipy. Real puppy love is solitary, silent, soulful suffering—the spirit laid bare and huddling and helpless to cure its own agony.

I remembered then my own case of puppy love in the seventh grade. I wrote not six names on a blackboard, but one in my heart.

She was a girl half a head taller than I, and I sold newspapers on the streets for days to save up enough to buy her a box of Valentine candy, and she promptly gave a piece to the tallest boy in the class.

This boy was my best friend and I sat in the row between him and her, and I had to pass back and forth the notes they wrote each other and I never read a line. I have had to do some bitter chores in my life since then, but none that ever degraded me more or left me more forlorn.

Well, he grew up and died, and she grew up and married, and I grew up and moved away. And I never really told her that I loved her, and I never will.

All this happened back in 1918, and so far as I know puppy love has been going downhill ever since. They don't have men in the seventh grade anymore who can stand up to its torture.

Six names on a blackboard—Ha! Child's play. But I guess it's better that way.

The Business World

By JOHN T. CUNTIFF
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The dramatic encounter in recent months over wage-price guideposts seemingly always have ended in victory for the administration and defeat — and price rollbacks — for business.

But is it so? In the immediate conflict business has been the loser. But there is evidence business learned quickly how to get its way while apparently observing the guidelines.

This has been done by mixing price cuts with price advances, by making increases small, by making no announcements of increases, by dealing with customers individually, by maintaining the old price list but putting more of the transportation burden on the buyer and by eliminating discounts.

In addition, an attempt at a price or wage increase, publicly announced, has a good chance of attracting no reprisal from Washington. The administration has been selective. Some increases get by.

Early in March, U.S. Steel Co. boosted prices on a big tonnage item, steel plate, by an average of $292 a ton. At the same time it cut prices on another product it said could be substituted.

U.S. Steel called the net result of "standoff." And Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, commented:

"In the Council's judgment, relative price adjustments can contribute to economic efficiency when they take place within a framework of price stability."

But was it a standoff? Although the increase — decrease arrangement could confuse an electronic computer — U.S. Steel tossed away its price lists for some nails and a type of wire rod and decided to negotiate prices instead — some observers now feel the full impact was an increase. For one thing, the increase in the total price of steel caused by U.S. Steel's price rise seems to be of the same magnitude as would have been caused by Bethlehem Steel Co. abortive attempt to raise prices Jan. 1.

For another, the price decrease on sheet steel — which U.S. Steel hoped could be made without the purchase of costly new machinery by the buyer.

Wages also have gone beyond the guideposts. The Labor Department said major 1965 wage increases averaged 3.9 per cent, the highest since the guideposts were established.

Some evidence exists, then to suggest that the power of the guideposts isn't as dramatic as exhibited in the dramatic rollback of prices in aluminum and steel.

The effect, in fact, may be more psychological than actual. Next: Criticism.

A just concluded study, by the Mental Research Institute of Berkeley, Calif., of married men, married women, spinsters and bachelors, reveals the bachelors unhappiest of all. The surprise here is how they got the bachelors to admit it.

Married men also rated highest in being satisfied with their jobs. Apparently, having two bosses is better than having just one.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The snorer blissfully continues his nightly concert of cacophony unaffected by the sleeplessness of his audience.

Something should be done about it. Laws should be passed. Soundproof snoring cabinets should be invented. Snoring should be a valid reason for divorce.

These are a few of the pathetic pleas of those who beg for a quiet night of sleep without the periodic awakening by a cavernous snore.

The snore can be the gentle but persistent whistle of a flute, a mellow note of a violin, the thunderous roar of an organ. The rate, rhythm and variety of sounds truly can be called "chamber music."

Not much is known about this distressing condition that affects the lives of 25 million people in the United States alone.

Snoring is truly a vast epidemic social "disease."

The one thing known about snoring is the fact that noise is produced when the muscles of the jaw, tongue, palate and throat are relaxed and air passes over them and causes the delicate tissues to "flap in the wind."

Snoring is not the private possession of mouth breathers. The sounds may be different but nose breathers are snoreful sleepers, too.

In children large masses of adenoids are the most common offenders. Foreign bodies, a high arched palate and nasal allergies can be important reasons for snoring.

In adults, polyps, a deviated septum, poorly fitted dentures, allergic rhinitis and obesity may be the cause. With so many possibilities, it becomes imperative to seek the underlying cause. Unfortunately, this is not always possible.

If no underlying cause is found and the noise is unbearable, gadgets are created to "stop the racket."

Hundreds of ingenious anti-snoring devices have been devised to keep the snorer off his back, to keep his tongue from falling back, to keep the mouth shut and to keep the chin from falling down.

Chin straps vary from simple elastic to sequin covered, hand embroidered ones.

Rubber masks, adhesive tapes and complex metallic devices keep the chin up.

Ear plugs for the unwilling listener may help but usually are inadequate. Squeaking rubber balls attached to the back of the neck wakes the snorer when he lies on it.

The trouble with this is that the snorer tranquilly sleeps through this noise while the listener has an additional one to cope with.

Could it be coincidence that most of the scientists engaged in the study of snoring are said to be married to a person that snores?

Cut toenails squarely to avoid cuts and the possibility of infection.

A Good Idea

It almost flabbergasts me to admit it, but Senator J. William Fulbright, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, started talking common sense the other day. Oh, it wasn't anything he had to say about Ho Chi Minh, or Mao Tse-tung, or Fidel Castro, whose motives he has never been able to fathom. The common sense emerged, like a crocus sticking its head above ground after a long winter, when Bill Fulbright practically told Foreign Aid Administrator David Bell that this business of direct government-to-government aid was a bad thing, and that in lending money for overseas development it would be a far better arrangement if U. S. funds were to go through "third party" international institutions such as the World Bank.

It so happened that the very day on which the Arkansas Senator was complaining that government-to-government grants and loans had "unfortunate side effects" in identifying the U.S. with rulers who might be anything but popular with their peoples, some fifty faculty members of Delhi University in India complained about President Lyndon Johnson's proposal that an Indian-American educational foundation be set up with the $300 million in rupees which the U. S. has on deposit in Indian banks. This vast sum of money has accumulated through the sale of American foodstuffs under the U. S. Food for Peace program, and it cannot be taken out of the country. Something must be done with it inside India, but the Delhi professors don't want to see official U. S. government involvement in a foundation created to educate Indians.

The head of Delhi University's faculty of arts, Dean R. K. Dasgupta, hastened to add that he did not ascribe any evil motives to Americans. "After all," he said, "the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations have been very helpful here." What bothers Dean Dasgupta is the chance that "if American officials control the disbursement of these huge amounts of money, then they also will inevitably influence educational policy."

Having just spent a couple of weeks in Mexico, I am in a good position to appreciate the wisdom of Fulbright's criticism of direct government-to-government aid. Like the South Vietnamese, or the Indians, the Mexican politicians don't mind taking money. But they don't want to stand before their constituents as being "bought" by that money.

The most satisfactory U. S. loans to Mexico at the moment are routed through Mexican private banks to individual farmers who happen to be small proprietors with some security to put up for the money. The money may originate with the U. S. government, but it is passed on at six percent through private banking channels to the "pequenos propietarios" without bringing Mexican politicians into the act. The private banks, as it was described to me, insisted that each loan be supervised by an experienced "agronomo," who insists that it be applied to individual projects that promise a profit. Some of the loans, which average $2,500, have enabled small farmers to double their income within a year.

Since the money passes out of official U. S. government hands into private banking hands before it becomes individual working capital, the likelihood of anyone yelling about "Yankee domination" is thereby considerably reduced.

Fulbright's motion to remove the bilateral "government-to-government" aspect from lending to Latin America might be construed in such a way that the Agency for International Development would be prevented from making direct loans of any kind, even though in the end they are administered by private banks. As I write, the report is that the Agency for International Development would, in most instances, be compelled to lend through such world institutions as the World Bank. In the case of Latin America, any loans would have to meet with the approval of the Inter-American Committee of the Alliance for Progress. But this would get the "nationalist" government-to-government flavor out of the transactions. It would mean that the U. S. would not be held responsible for the behavior of the regimes that eventually got the money. It would also forestall criticism about Yankee domination of foreign governments.

So this time Fulbright has what looks like a good idea. Since this column is always looking for reasons to commend even those whom it must ordinarily criticize, let us salute the Senator for being fully bright for a change.

Boston Shuns Racial Plan, Loses Funds

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston School Committee has again voted to ban busing as a way to end racial imbalance in public schools, and the action cost the city $16 million in state education funds.

The funds were cut off as of today by the Massachusetts Board of Education on recommendation of Education Commissioner Owen E. Kiernan.

"Commissioner Kiernan is using dictator tactics to force the Boston School Committee to betray the trust of thousands of voters who elected them in the chief issue that there would be no busing of their children," William E. O'Connor, school committeeman, said before the 5-0 vote was taken Thursday night.

The three-year-old dispute involves the quality of schools in the predominantly Negro Roxbury section. It has led to two one-day school boycotts and a civil rights protest march of some 10,000 persons.

Louise Day Hicks, former school committee chairman, who is still a committee member, said today there can be no suitable plan to ending racial imbalance in the schools.

"It can't be done," she said. "Mr. Lee's scatteration plan is the only hope."

She referred to a proposal by committeeman Joseph Lee, that 14,000 Boston Negro children be transported daily to schools in the suburbs as a means of compliance with the state's new racial imbalance law.

The Massachusetts Legislature last year enacted a law requiring cities and towns to eliminate racial imbalance in their public schools within a reasonable time or face a loss of state education aid.

Before Thursday night's meeting Mrs. Hicks was quoted as saying, "as I've said many times before, I don't believe racial imbalance in educational ly harmful."

Negro parents contend that racial imbalance and overcrowding greatly interfere with the educational process in the school of their district.

The education commissioner said as soon as Boston submits plans for compliance with the law, its state education funds will be restored.

Diplomatic Who's Who Is Secret To Hide Spooks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secrecy veil is about to cover one of the State Department's oldest publications — the biographical register of who's who in the U.S. diplomatic service.

State Department officials said today they have ordered a new edition of the bulky, much-used volume and that it will bear a security classification for the first time. On security grounds, they declined to say why.

Other sources said the Central Intelligence Agency wants the book withheld from the public to help conceal who in the U.S. diplomatic lists overseas are really CIA men.

The State Department register, nicknamed the "stud book" because of its biographical data, never lists anyone as a CIA man or espionage agent. It gives birthplaces and dates, education, rank and career with non-secret organizations.

But from these summaries of career, even with some falsified, it is sometimes possible to make a good guess at who is a professional State Department Foreign Service officer and who might be a "pook" — the diplomats' slang for undercover men put on embassy rosters.

Intelligence men contend that even if hostile agents do find out who are not the real diplomats in American missions abroad, there is no point in making it easier for them by publishing it.

The State Department's library copies indicate the register was first published in 1833.

West Gets To Inspect Red Plane

BERLIN (AP) — The crash of a Soviet plane in a West Berlin lake gave the Western Allies their first inspection of a new Russian all-weather fighter.

The wreckage of the plane, which crashed eight days ago in the city's British sector, was delivered Wednesday to a Soviet pontoon raft in the Havel River near the East German frontier.

A British spokesman confirmed for the first time that the two-seat, twin-jet plane was of an advanced type previously relatively unknown in the West.

"The aircraft appeared to be the YAK28 type," the spokesman said, adding, "This is a most modern type of Soviet all-weather fighter."

The plane's two crewmen were killed, and their bodies were turned over to the Russians last Friday.

Informed Allied sources said: "This was the first look we have had at such a plane in any circumstances." The sources added that they understood the plane had been outside the Soviet Union for only about three weeks at the time of the crash.

It was a mystery, the sources said, why the Soviets had brought such a plane so near to the West.

New A-Energy Detector Bared

Soviet Handed U.S. Challenge

GENEVA (AP) — The United States disclosed Thursday details of a revolutionary new wire tape which would automatically detect any world power violating an agreement to halt the production of material for nuclear weapons.

The chief U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, William C. Foster, challenged the Soviet Union to sign such an agreement and at the same time agree to the transfer by each of the superpowers of 100,000 kilograms (220,460 pounds) of U235 enriched uranium for peaceful purposes.

Foster said the "safing tape," contained in a tube, would be passed through a nuclear reactor and collected by an inspection team. Standard radiation detectors would then locate any resulting radioactivity which would show whether the reactor had been operating in violation of an agreement.

The U.S. delegate said an agreement to halt production of fissionable materials for weapons purposes would, in effect, mean the destruction of "bomb and warheads of a class that have a death-dealing potential the world has fortunately not experienced."

He added that as the result of the American wire tape development, it would be insured that plutonium production reactors shut down in compliance with an international agreement could not go on operating clandestinely.

Air Force To Change Spain Setup

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The U.S. Air Force is sharply reorganizing its activities in Spain in the wake of the loss and recovery of the H-bomb off Palomares Beach, Spanish sources reported today.

They said the shifts would involve phasing out of the U.S. 16th Air Force which since July 1956 has operated in Spain and Morocco as one of the Strategic Air Command's two nuclear bomber forces overseas.

Presumably the U.S. Air Force command in Europe with headquarters in Weisbaden, Germany, would take over future American Air Force activities in Spain.

The changes had no direct connection with the crash of a B52 bomber carrying nuclear arms on Spain's southeast coast last Jan. 17. But following the incident, Spain banned overflights by U.S. planes carrying nuclear arms and this admittedly curtailed some of the 16th Air Force normal activities.

Competent sources said that while phasing out of the 16th Air Force had been contemplated for some time, the timetable likely was advanced by the bomber crash and by French President Charles de Gaulle's ultimatum to the United States to get its forces out of France by the end of 1966.

Finland's Fine Airports Built by Drunken Drivers

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Foreign visitors often admire Finland's modern airports, but few realize that many of them were built by drunken motorists.

In the gangs working on airports and on other projects, you'll find members of Parliament, doctors, teachers and businessmen digging alongside unskilled laborers.

Finnish authorities nab about 66,000 drunken drivers a year. For the past 10 years they have been sentencing them to from three months to two years in work colonies.

About 80 per cent of these work gangs are alcoholic autoists. The rest are regular convicts.

Inmates of the work colonies lead a spartan life, rising at 6 a.m., working a full day and turning in at 10:30 p.m. They live in army-type barracks with tiers of bunks, a big wooden table in the center of the room and no other furniture.

Visitors are limited to three hours each Sunday. In special cases, a relative may see a prisoner for 10 minutes on a week day.

Prisoners are paid 60 cents an hour for their work but most of this goes for such items as meals at 50 cents each and work clothes which they must buy or rent. The government also deducts about 25 per cent of the prisoners' wages in taxes. If an inmate is single, he must save 10 to 20 per cent of his earnings. If he has a family, up to 50 per cent of his pay is deducted for family support.

The biggest work camp of this type is located next to Helsinki Airport on the outskirts of the capital. Inmates of this camp built the airport about 15 years ago in time for the 1952 Olympics which were held in Finland.

Business leaders caught driving under the influence of alcohol are usually sent to this camp. There is a standing joke in financial circles about an executive going away on a three-month business trip.

"You can pick him up at Helsinki Airport when he returns," a colleague will say with a wink.

Confinement in one of the work camps for drunken driving does not carry the stigma associated with a regular prison sentence for some crime. Many inmates develop a camaraderie; after they get out there are reunions to recall experiences, much in the manner of army veterans.

The all-day session will get under way with a breakfast in the Buckeye Suite of the Ohio Union. Various speakers of the College of Medicine are scheduled on the program in addition to presentation of awards to honored alumni.

A business meeting will be held during the afternoon. A tour of new facilities at OSU also will be conducted.

Dr. Smith's class of 1931 will hold its reunion at the Jai Lai beginning 6:30 p. m.

Michael Shaffer To Get Doctorate

A Circleville man will be honored April 24 at the University of Florida during the school's annual commencement ceremonies.

Michael Reid Shaffer, 675 Garden Parkway, will receive his doctorate of philosophy at the commencement program.

Shaffer, a native of Ft. Myers, Fla., received his BS and MA degrees from Purdue University at LaFayette, Ind. He is employed by IBM of Dayton and is stationed at the Mead Paper Co., Chillicothe. He is in charge of the installation of computers in the mill.

The Shaffers have two sons, Arthur, 4, and Carl, 3.

WANTS "TO SEE EVERYTHING"—After helping plant one of several trees she donated to help beautify Court House Square in Johnson City, Tex., Lynda Bird Johnson said she hopes to go to Europe this summer and, "I want to see everything." The President and Mrs. Johnson are believed to have offered the trip abroad as a college graduation present. She is 22.

Diplomatic Who's Who Is Secret To Hide Spooks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secrecy veil is about to cover one of the State Department's oldest publications — the biographical register of who's who in the U.S. diplomatic service.

State Department officials said today they have ordered a new edition of the bulky, much-used volume and that it will bear a security classification for the first time. On security grounds, they declined to say why.

Other sources said the Central Intelligence Agency wants the book withheld from the public to help conceal who in the U.S. diplomatic lists overseas are really CIA men.

The State Department register, nicknamed the "stud book" because of its biographical data, never lists anyone as a CIA man or espionage agent. It gives birthplaces and dates, education, rank and career with non-secret organizations.

But from these summaries of career, even with some falsified, it is sometimes possible to make a good guess at who is a professional State Department Foreign Service officer and who might be a "pook" — the diplomats' slang for undercover men put on embassy rosters.

Intelligence men contend that even if hostile agents do find out who are not the real diplomats in American missions abroad, there is no point in making it easier for them by publishing it.

The State Department's library copies indicate the register was first published in 1833.

West Gets To Inspect Red Plane

BERLIN (AP) — The crash of a Soviet plane in a West Berlin lake gave the Western Allies their first inspection of a new Russian all-weather fighter.

The wreckage of the plane, which crashed eight days ago in the city's British sector, was delivered Wednesday to a Soviet pontoon raft in the Havel River near the East German frontier.

A British spokesman confirmed for the first time that the two-seat, twin-jet plane was of an advanced type previously relatively unknown in the West. "The aircraft appeared to be the YAK28 type," the spokesman said, adding, "This is a most modern type of Soviet all-weather fighter."

The plane's two crewmen were killed, and their bodies were turned over to the Russians last Friday.

Informed Allied sources said: "This was the first look we have had at such a plane in any circumstances." The sources added that they understood the plane had been outside the Soviet Union for only about three weeks at the time of the crash.

It was a mystery, the sources said, why the Soviets had brought such a plane so near to the West.

New A-Energy Detector Bared

Soviet Handed U.S. Challenge

GENEVA (AP) — The United States disclosed Thursday details of a revolutionary new wire tape which would automatically detect any world power violating an agreement to halt the production of material for nuclear weapons.

The chief U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, William C. Foster, challenged the Soviet Union to sign such an agreement and at the same time agree to the transfer by each of the superpowers of 100,000 kilograms (220,460 pounds) of U235 enriched uranium for peaceful purposes.

Foster said the "safety tape," contained in a tube, would be passed through a nuclear reactor and collected by an inspection team. Standard radiation detectors would then locate any resulting radioactivity which would show whether the reactor had been operating in violation of an agreement.

The U.S. delegate said an agreement to halt production of fissionable materials for weapons purposes would, in effect, mean the destruction of "bomb and warheads of a class that have a death-dealing potential the world has fortunately not experienced."

He added that as the result of the American wire tape development, it would be insured that plutonium production reactors shut down in compliance with an international agreement could not go on operating clandestinely.

Boy Potshooters Said Cause of Power Outage

EASTON, Mass. (AP) — A power failure left the town of Easton without electricity for two hours one night recently.

Officials of Brockton Edison Co. said boys shooting at glass insulators apparently cut a power line.

Air Force To Change Spain Setup

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The U.S. Air Force is sharply reorganizing its activities in Spain in the wake of the loss and recovery of the H-bomb off Palomares Beach, Spanish sources reported today.

They said the shifts would involve phasing out of the U.S. 16th Air Force which since July 1956 has operated in Spain and Morocco as one of the Strategic Air Command's two nuclear bomber forces overseas.

Presumably the U.S. Air Force command in Europe with headquarters in Weisbaden, Germany, would take over future American Air Force activities in Spain.

The changes had no direct connection with the crash of a B52 bomber carrying nuclear arms on Spain's southeast coast last Jan. 17. But following the incident, Spain banned overflights by U.S. planes carrying nuclear arms and this admittedly curtailed some of the 16th Air Force normal activities.

Competent sources said that while phasing out of the 16th Air Force had been contemplated for some time, the timetable likely was advanced by the bomber crash and by French President Charles de Gaulle's ultimatum to the United States to get its forces out of France by the end of 1966.

Finland's Fine Airports Built by Drunken Drivers

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Foreign visitors often admire Finland's modern airports, but few realize that many of them were built by drunken motorists.

In the gangs working on airports and on other projects, you'll find members of Parliament, doctors, teachers and businessmen digging alongside unskilled laborers.

Finnish authorities nab about 66,000 drunken drivers a year. For the past 10 years they have been sentencing them to from three months to two years in work colonies.

About 80 per cent of these work gangs are alcoholic motorists. The rest are regular convicts.

Inmates of the work colonies lead a spartan life, rising at 6 a.m., working a full day and turning in at 10:30 p.m. They live in army-type barracks with tiers of bunks, a big wooden table in the center of the room and no other furniture.

Visitors are limited to three hours each Sunday. In special cases, a relative may see a prisoner for 10 minutes on a week day.

Prisoners are paid 60 cents an hour for their work but most of this goes for such items as meals at 50 cents each and work clothes which they must buy or rent. The government also deducts about 25 per cent of the prisoners' wages in taxes. If an inmate is single, he must save 10 to 20 per cent of his earnings. If he has a family, up to 50 per cent of his pay is deducted for family support.

The biggest work camp of this type is located next to Helsinki Airport on the outskirts of the capital. Inmates of this camp built the airport about 15 years ago in time for the 1952 Olympics which were held in Finland.

Business leaders caught driving under the influence of alcohol are usually sent to this camp. There is a standing joke in financial circles about an executive going away on a three-month business trip.

"You can pick him up at Helsinki Airport when he returns," a colleague will say with a wink.

Confinement in one of the work camps for drunken driving does not carry the stigma associated with a regular prison sentence for some crime. Many inmates develop a camaraderie; after they get out there are reunions to recall experiences, much in the manner of army veterans.

Flaget Student Named to NHS

Cynthia Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter, 615 Ridgewood Drive, was inducted into the National Honor Society during a ceremony Wednesday evening at Chillicothe High School.

Cynthia, a junior at Bishop Flaget School, and five other members of her class were chosen by faculty vote. Qualifications of leadership, character, scholarship and service are required of NHS members.

Members of the Adena Chapter of the National Honor Society are Adena, Bishop Flaget, Chillicothe, Huntington, Paint Valley and Southeastern High Schools.

Dear Abby:

Let Hubby Write His Head Off

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a compulsive letter-to-the-editor writer. Hector was an English major and was once the editor of his high school newspaper so he knows something about writing. But he has been going at that typewriter something fierce lately. He has something to say on every subject currently in the news. If President Johnson wants to know what to do about Viet Nam, the rising cost of living, taxes or unemployment, he should ask Hector. I realize

Latest Assortment Of Novel Products

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
If you can't find it anywhere else, look at the notion counter. It is stocked with a marvelous medley of all sorts of handy, decorative and useful aids.

You can't really put notions into categories. The range is far too wide. But the designation includes hair care aids, sewing aids, travel gadgets, beach goods, closet and boudoir accessories.

It also embraces such interesting items as a really efficient pair of lobster shears, slipcovers for Danish chairs, a fascinating foot vibrator and a caddy for bath aids that can be hung on the shower fixture.

Notion counters, in short, are a Wonderland of wonderful aids. New ones, which the National Notions Association previewed recently, are only fabulous.

A spray to run-proof stockings made the biggest hit with the ladies of the press. Applied to clean, dry stockings, it dries instantly and is both invisible and odorless. It doesn't stiffen stockings, either.

Another line of product that proved popular included luggage in a variety of sizes. What's so interesting about luggage? The fact that each of the pieces in this line folds flat so that it takes up a minimum of storage space.

Sewing and mending aids attracted plenty of attention, too. In this category the stars included iron-on seam binding and a flexible vinyl yardstick that performs as a tape measure or measuring stick.

A sewing chest with three fitted plastic drawers (for threads, bobbins, needles and buttons) and larger drawers (for patterns) intrigues even non-sewers. The fitted drawers would be great for storing jewelry and the big drawers could stow away fashion accessories.

In beach accessories, saucy specs with big round frames, done in a bold checkerboard pattern and a brimmed bathing cap edged in black and decked with ribbon were outstanding.

Interested in some of these newcomers?

You'll find them, and many, many more that are equally marvelous at notions counters.

HECTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Hector I don't make up any letters. With people like him around, I don't have to. And to answer your question, I agree with the psychiatrist. Let Hector shoot his typewriter off.

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as being too polite? I know a man who is so polite he makes everyone nervous. He is the one who races on ahead to open doors. And he jumps like a jack-in-the-box whenever a woman (or even an older person) enters the room. He beats all the other men when it comes to helping ladies with their coats and pulling out chairs. I don't think this much courtesy is necessary. Should I be quiet? Or should I tell him he is overdoing the perfect gentleman routine?

HIS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Be quiet. I suspect your "too polite" friend is merely well-bred and is behaving accordingly. Courtesy cannot be overdone. And he who is made "nervous" by good manners probably needs to brush up on his own.

DEAR ABBY: I have two very close friends who like me a lot, but they just hate each other. One will get very mad if I go with the other one. What should I do?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Drop both of them! Everyone has the right to choose his own friends. And so have you!

Union Guild Welcomes New Member

Union Guild met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Nettie Dean, Kingston. Mrs. Edna Im-mell was assisting hostess. Mrs. Orin Bircher was accepted as a new member.

Mrs. Magdalene Fee presided at the meeting. Mrs. Helen New-ton led the devotions. During the business session the group voted to contribute to the crippled children's fund and remember a shut-in with a planter.

Members were reminded of the flower-exchange at the May meeting. Following the Guild Benediction and closing song Mrs. Mabel Downs conducted a contest with prizes going to Mrs. Pauline Schooley and Mrs. Hazel Mowery.

Refreshments were served to 15 members and the following guests: Mrs. Evelyn Pontious, Mrs. Clarence Wardell, Mrs. Florence Russell, Mrs. George Sparks and Mrs. Merle Turner.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Edith Linton, Route 2, with Mrs. Martha Krimmel assisting.

Road Safety Legislation Is Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate committees hope to have highway safety legislation ready for Senate action early next month.

They are the Public Works and the Commerce committees that are handling separate parts of President Johnson's highway safety programs.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., acting chairman of the Public Works Committee, indicated he expects the legislation to go beyond the President's recommendations—both in authority for setting auto safety standards and in federal grants for state highway safety measures.

The administration program would authorize federal expenditures of about $700 million over the next six years in an effort to reduce highway accidents that take about 50,000 lives a year.

This includes $420 million to aid states in establishing uniform highway safety programs approved by the secretary of commerce and $160 million for expanded research and development related to all aspects of highway safety.

Prof Deplores Prejudice Against Hiring Women

NEW YORK (AP) — A Columbia University professor said today most employers still prefer "dumb men to smart women."

The professor, Dr. Eli Ginzberg, a manpower expert, sounded a call for sweeping changes to help educated women overcome what he said are prejudices against them and live a more balanced life.

Ginzberg, who heads the President's National Manpower Advisory Committee, contended modern society hasn't faced up to the potential of married women in a man's world.

He debunked a view held by some social critics — many of whom are women — who argue that women today are torn between the home and the outside world and don't know which way to turn.

"All those people who have been harping about women's problems and conflicts have made this up largely out of their own imagination," he said in an interview. "Many women now-a-days are able to have the best of both worlds and there is no reason why they shouldn't."

Ginzberg presents evidence for his thesis in a book released Wednesday entitled "Life Styles of Educated Women" in which he examines the views of 311 women who pursued higher education at Columbia University over a six-year period.

"Three-quarters of these women did not regard their lives as being full of frustrations," he said. "In fact they were willing, given the chance, to fulfill their potentiality outside of the home."

But, Ginzberg suggested shortsightedness on the part of employers, the federal government and universities in their attitudes is hampering women in attaining such a goal.

Ginzberg pointed out that 24 million women are now employed each day on a fulltime or part-time basis.

"And, if the war in Viet Nam continues to mushroom," he added, "the only significant labor force available may be women."

Yorke's short, short skirt, Kathleen said, "The men shouldn't stare."

The Daily Sketch asked its readers for comment, noting that fashion experts predict skirts this summer will be shorter than ever. The paper was swamped with replies.

"Can anything be more soothing after a hard day's work at the office than a row of shapely legs in the train home?" wrote John Wright of Orpington, Kent.

"Britain is depraved enough without having girls going about half dressed," H. G. Benneh, Blythe, Northumberland, commented.

Said J. M. Hampstead of London: "All I can say is, three cheers for the fashion designers. How could they do more?"

They give the girls the fashions they want. And, let's face it, they give us men one of the prettiest sights in the streets for years."

A restaurant in nearby Amer-ham refused to admit Pat Gadd, 17, because her skirt was too short.

"When this young lady came into my restaurant I was flabbergasted," said Margaret Fox, 62.

Pat said she didn't think her dress was indecent. Her boy friend Ray Pearce, 18, commented: "I don't think Pat's dress was too short. In fact, I would like to see it shorter."

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Documentary programs and specials are literally being loaded into the television networks' schedules as the season ends.

These documentaries, three specials, two premieres and the annual "Oscar Awards Show" crowd the next seven days.

"The Big Guy," an ABC documentary following the careers of two young heavyweight boxers, starts the documentary parade tonight (9-10 EST).

NBC starts a weekly "Viet Nam War Review" Sunday (5:30 p.m.) and will present one of its "white paper" series later in the day (6:30-7:30), this one called "Countdown to Zero," about the threat of nuclear proliferation.

"The Oscar Awards Show" on ABC comes up Monday (10 p.m. to midnight or after) with the usual galaxy of stars, stat-ettes and acceptance speeches. Earlier there will be a one-shot comedy show, "Where's Everett?" on CBS (9:30-10), apparently a pilot program that failed to get a network spot. It concerns an invisible baby from outer space.

On Tuesday ABC will present an hour-long one-shot, still another unsold pilot, called "Assault" (7:30-8:30 p.m.). It is an adventure story about World War II Marines with Gary Lockwood. CBS' News Department special (10-11) will be an interview with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Danny Thomas, starring in a book comedy called "The Road to Lebanon," will be seen on NBC Wednesday (9-10 p.m.) with some help, naturally, from the original "road" boys, Crosby and Hope. Then NBC will present an audience quiz show on political leanings called "Testing: Right, Left or Center?" (10-11).

"Mickie Finn's" will have its premiere on NBC Thursday (9:30-10 p.m.). It is a half-hour musical show in a Gay 90s setting and is intended purely as a summer replacement.

Fashion Designer Outlines His Views in Blank Verse

EDITOR'S NOTE — As much as anyone, designer Jacques Tiffeau, 39, has changed the way American women dress. Even before Paris got around to them this year, Tiffeau was raising eyebrows with such styles as keyhole navels, see-through sheers and the highest hemline in town. What does he think of the styles of today and tomorrow, and what about the criticism of them? Here's his report—in blank verse.

By JACQUES TIFFEAU
Written for Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Goodbye the old wardrobe! Goodbye the past!

The women of today have changed!

The style, the color, the shape, the length.

The women of today have no age!

From 20 to 50 years their activities are the same.

The woman of today moves. She votes. She drives a car. She goes to business.

She lives like a man, but with one big difference. She has to be two or three women wrapped into one.

she has to be seductive! Her clothes speak for today. They are not glued to the figure.

They must be fluid, light — they must move to map the discovery of her body, her body which is not restrained by any artifice or foundation

The fabrics, tweed, jersey, silk, are light without fragility.

The hair and makeup will be simple. The shoes will be low-heeled or flat!

There must be some mystery for daytime, but done with a kind of throw-away chic.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Let Hubby Write His Head Off

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a compulsive letter-to-the-editor writer. Hector was an English major and was once the editor of his high school newspaper so he knows something about writing. But he has been going at that typewriter something fierce lately. He has a something to say on every subject currently in the news. If President Johnson wants to know what to do about Viet Nam, the rising cost of living, taxes or unemployment, he should ask Hector. I realize that this is a good safety valve for Hector's steam, but every once in a while one of his letters gets published and he is the laughing stock of the community for months. His psychiatrist says it's good for him, but Abby, I have to live in this town, too. What do you think? Please print this because Hector reads your column and gets a big kick out of it, but he says you make up all the letters yourself.

HECTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Hector I don't make up any letters. With people like him around, I don't have to. And to answer your question, I agree with the psychiatrist. Let Hector shoot his typewriter off.

Latest Assortment Of Novel Products

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If you can't find it anywhere else, look at the notion counter. It is stocked with a marvelous medley of all sorts of handy, decorative and useful aids.

You can't really put notions into categories. The range is far too wide. But the designation includes hair care aids, sewing aids, travel gadgets, beach goods, closet and boudoir accessories.

It also embraces such interesting items as a really efficient pair of lobster shears, slippers for Danish chairs, a fascinating foot vibrator and a caddy for bath aids that can be hung on the shower fixture.

Notion counters, in short, are a Wonderland of wonderful aids. New ones, which the National Notions Association previewed recently, are only fabulous.

A spray to run-proof stockings made the biggest hit with the ladies of the press. Applied to clean, dry stockings, it dries instantly and is both invisible and odorless. It doesn't stiffen stockings, either.

Another line of product that proved popular included luggage in a variety of sizes. What's so interesting about luggage? The fact that each of the pieces in this line folds flat so that it takes up a minimum of storage space.

Sewing and mending aids attracted plenty of attention, too. In this category the stars included iron-on seam binding and a flexible vinyl yardstick that performs as a tape measure or measuring stick.

A sewing chest with three fitted plastic drawers (for threads, bobbins, needles and buttons) and larger drawers (for patterns) intrigues even non-sewers. The fitted drawers would be great for storing jewelry and the big drawers could stow away fashion accessories.

In beach accessories, saucy spees with big round frames, done in a bold checkerboard pattern and a brimmed bathing cap edged in black and decked with ribbon were outstanding.

Interested in some of these newcomers?

You'll find them, and many, many more that are equally marvelous at notions counters.

The Willing Workers Class of Pontious EUB Church will meet 2 p. m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Walter Richards, Route 1.

Union Guild Welcomes New Member

Union Guild met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Nettie Dean, Kingston. Mrs. Edna Im-mell was assisting hostess. Mrs. Orin Bircher was accepted as a new member.

Mrs. Magdalene Fee presided at the meeting. Mrs. Helen New-lon led the devotions. During the business session the group voted to contribute to the crippled children's fund and remember a shut-in with a planter.

Members were reminded of the flower-exchange at the May meeting. Following the Guild Benediction and closing song Mrs. Mabel Downs conducted a contest with prizes going to Mrs. Pauline Schooley and Mrs. Hazel Mowery.

Refreshments were served to 15 members and the following guests: Mrs. Elvelyn Pontious, Mrs. Clarence Wardell, Mrs. Florence Russell, Mrs. George Sparks and Mrs. Merle Turner.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Edith Linton, Route 2, with Mrs. Martha Krimmel assisting.

Road Safety Legislation Is Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate committees hope to have highway safety legislation ready for Senate action early next month.

They are the Public Works and the Commerce committees that are handling separate parts of President Johnson's highway safety program.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., acting chairman of the Public Works Committee, indicated he expects the legislation to go beyond the President's recommendations—both in authority for setting auto safety standards and in federal grants for state highway safety measures.

The administration program would authorize federal expenditures of about $700 million over the next six years in an effort to reduce highway accidents that take about 50,000 lives a year.

This includes $420 million to aid states in establishing uniform highway safety programs approved by the secretary of commerce and $160 million for expanded research and development related to all aspects of highway safety.

Others present were Vicki West, Nanette Weaver, Betty McKenzie, Robin Thomas and Melinda Sue Smith.

Prof Deplores Prejudice Against Hiring Women

NEW YORK (AP) — A Columbia University professor said today most employers still prefer "dumb men to smart women."

The professor, Dr. Eli Ginzberg, a manpower expert, sounded a call for sweeping changes to help educated women overcome what he said are prejudices against them and live a more balanced life.

Ginzberg, who heads the President's National Manpower Advisory Committee, contended modern society hasn't faced up to the potential of married women in a man's world.

He debunked a view held by some social critics — many of whom are women — who argue that women today are torn between the home and the outside world and don't know which way to turn.

"All those people who have been harping about women's problems and conflicts have made this up largely out of their own imagination," he said in an interview. "Many women nowadays are able to have the best of both worlds and there is no reason why they shouldn't."

Ginzberg presents evidence for his thesis in a book released Wednesday entitled "Life Styles of Educated Women" in which he examines the views of 311 women who pursued higher education at Columbia University over a six-year period.

"Three-quarters of these women did not regard their lives as being full of frustrations," he said. "In fact they were willing, given to chance, to fulfill their potential outside of the home."

But, Ginzberg suggested shortsightedness on the part of employers, the federal government and universities in their attitudes is hampering women in attaining such a goal.

Ginzberg pointed out that 24 million women are now employed each day on a fulltime or part-time basis.

"And, if the war in Viet Nam continues to mushroom," he added, "the only significant labor force available may be women."

Skirts Go Up-Up; Britons Debate Whether To Stare

LONDON (AP) — As skirts go up-up in Britain, the public is divided on whether to stare.

Even in the chilly, damp sunless weather of the early English spring, the skirts of many girls average four inches above the knee.

Some are five and six above. When a Yorkshire factory overseer complained that production was dropping because the men spent too much time looking at young Kathleen York's short, short skirt, Kathleen said, "The men shouldn't stare."

The Daily Sketch asked its readers for comment, noting that fashion experts predict skirts this summer will be shorter than ever. The paper was swamped with replies.

"Can anything be more soothing after a hard day's work at the office than a row of shapely legs in the train home?" wrote John Wright of Orpington, Kent.

"Britain is depraved enough without having girls going about half dresses," H. G. Benneh, Blythe, Northumberland, commented.

Said J. M. Hampstead of London: "All I can say is, three cheers for the fashion designers. How could they do more?"

They give the girls the fashions they want. And let's face it they give us men one of the prettiest sights in the streets for years."

A restaurant in nearby Amersham refused to admit Pat Gadd, 17, because her skirt was too short.

"When this young lady came into my restaurant I was flabbergasted," said Margaret Fox, 62.

Pat said she didn't think her dress was indecent. Her boy friend Ray Pearce, 18, commented: "I don't think Pat's dress was too short. In fact, I would like to see it shorter."

NEW YORK (AP) — Documentary programs and specials are literally being loaded into the television networks' schedules as the season ends.

These documentaries, three specials, two premieres and the annual "Oscar Awards Show" crowd the next seven days.

"The Big Guy," an ABC documentary following the careers of two young heavyweight boxers, starts the documentary parade tonight (9-10 EST).

NBC starts a weekly "Viet Nam War Review" Sunday (5-5:30 p.m.) and will present one of its "white paper" series later in the day (6:30-7:30), this one called "Countdown to Zero," about the threat of nuclear proliferation.

"The Oscar Awards Show" on ABC comes up Monday (10 p.m. to midnight or after) with the usual galaxy of stars, statuettes and acceptance speeches. Earlier there will be a one-shot comedy show, "Where's Everett?" on CBS (9-10), apparently a pilot program that failed to get a network spot. It concerns an invisible baby from outer space.

On Tuesday ABC will present an hour-long one-shot, still another unsold pilot, called "Assault" (7:30-8:30 p.m.). It is an adventure story about World War II Marines with Gary Lockwood, CBS' News Department special (10-11) will be an interview with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Danny Thomas, starring in a book comedy called "The Road to Lebanon," will be seen on NBC Wednesday (9-10 p.m.) with some help, naturally, from the original "road" boys, Crosby and Hope. Then NBC will present an audience quiz show on political leanings called "Testing: Right, Left or Center?" (10-11).

"Mickie Finn's" will have its premiere on NBC Thursday (9-10 p.m.). It is a half-hour musical show in a Gay 90s setting and is intended purely as a summer replacement.

Fashion Designer Outlines His Views in Blank Verse

EDITOR'S NOTE — As much as anyone, designer Jacques Tiffeau, 39, has changed the way American women dress.

Even before Paris got around to them this year, Tiffeau was raising eyebrows with such styles as keyhole navels, see-through sheers and the highest hemline in town. What does he think of the styles of today and tomorrow, and what about the criticism of them? Here's his report—in blank verse.

NEW YORK (AP) — Goodbye the old wardrobe! Goodbye the past!

The women of today have changed! The style, the color, the shape, the length.

The women of today have no age! From 20 to 50 years their activities are the same.

The woman of today moves. She votes. She drives a car. She goes to business.

She lives like a man, but with one big difference. She has to be two or three women wrapped into one, she has to be seductive! Her clothes speak for today.

They are not glued to the figure. They must be fluid, light — they must move to map the discovery of her body, her body which is not restrained by any artifice or foundation.

The fabrics, tweed, jersey, silk, are light without fragility.

The hair and makeup will be simple. The shoes will be low-heeled or flat!

Knees are not uglier than an elbow; bad nose, or sad mouth, and we don't cover them!

Spun-Fiber Diet Reduces Blood Fats

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Promising results were reported today with a "spun-fiber" diet designed to reduce blood fats under suspicion as contributors to heart attacks.

The diet — made up of predigested soybean protein spun into fibers to give the product a meat-like texture — is designed to give Americans deemed needing it the low-fat properties of the average oriental diet, but one having "the appearance of Western food." The wispy fibers are compacted into tiny morsels, and flavored and colored for serving.

Dr. Robert Hodges of the University of Iowa, who described it at a scientific meeting here, said people in the Orient have long been known to have much lower rates of atherosclerosis — a form of hardening of the arteries believed by many doctors to be the forerunner of heart attacks — than Americans.

And he said that while other factors in addition to dietary ones may aid the orientals in that respect, their low-fat diet is believed to play a significant role.

Hodges indicated at a news conference at the annual convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology that the orientals' dietary staple — rice — might serve the same purpose as the new diet. But he said the latter "is far more acceptable to Americans than rice."

Patients treated with the soybean diet eat the usual constituents of the American diet, Hodges said.

But, in addition to make-believe "ham" and "beef," the spun-fiber diet comes in simulated forms of "fish" and "poultry." A measured amount of fat is incorporated.

Hodges said "profound decreases" in levels of blood-fats, especially cholesterol, were achieved by giving the diet to some Iowa State Prison volunteers and some University of Iowa students in a six-month test.

The doctor said the spun-fiber diet — not yet commercially available, but one that should be moderate in cost when it is — was prepared by a commercial food-processing firm (General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis).

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, April 15, the 105th day of 1966. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1845, Abraham Lincoln died of a bullet wound inflicted by an assassin, John Wilkes Booth.

On this date

In 1850, San Francisco was incorporated as a city.

In 1940, British and French troops landed on the coast of Norway.

In 1945, the body of Franklin Delano Roosevelt was buried in the rose garden of the family estate at Hyde Park, N.Y.

In 1946, Spain invited all friendly nations to send a mission to investigate charges that German scientists in Spain were working on atomic energy.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman asked Congress for power to ship arms to friendly nations and deny them to others.

Ten years ago — Israel's Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion declared that Egypt was planning to "slaughter" Israel.

Five years ago — At least three American-made B26 bombers carried out raids on three Cuban air bases.

One year ago — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson visited the United States and conferred with President Johnson.

Gas Bubble's Travelogue Aids in Study of Heart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Medical travelogues — X-ray movies of an injected gas bubble's journey through veins into the heart — were credited today as a promising new tool in diagnosing a major form of cardiac disease.

The university of Southern California called the technique developed by three radiologists "an overnight success" in detecting trouble in the pericardium, a thin tissue sac enclosing the heart.

Star of the travelogue is a bubble of carbon dioxide, injected into a vein in the left forearm and filmed as it travels into the right upper chamber of the heart.

Measurements of how much the bubble is flattened by the squeezing motions of the heart tell how well the heart is functioning, and particularly whether it is being cramped by unwanted fluid between the heart muscle and the sac that envelops it.

The school said in a report that evidence of pericardial disease was found in 68 of 90 heart patients examined.

In 33 of the 68 the diagnosis was proved correct during surgery or autopsy, "and their is no reason to doubt that the disease is also present in the other 35 patients," the report said.

The technique was developed by Dr. A. Franklin Turner, Dr. Harvey I. Meyers and Dr. George Jacobson of the school's department of radiology.

Injection of the air into the circulation is dangerous because it can expand and block the flow of blood. The USC team uses carbon dioxide because it dissolves within a few seconds, allowing just enough time to film the travelogue.

Ohio Judge, Just 84, Says He'll Quit if He Gets Tired

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Judge Hugh Emmett Culbertson, who is 84 today, still puts in a full day on the Ashland County Common Pleas Court as he has for the past 27 years. He works in the courthouse he helped plan and build.

"I have not had opposition at any election but one, and that was by such a wonderful man that I actually felt bad when I won," he says.

Will he retire before his current six-year term expires in 1969?

"I might," he said. "Whenever it gets to be a burden, I'll quit."

Judge Culbertson is the only surviving member of the building commission for the Ashland County Courthouse. As prosecuting attorney — an office he held eight years prior to becoming a judge — he was legal counsel to the commission.

"Some of the meetings were pretty vicious," he recalls. "I was told that if I didn't like the existing courthouse, I could always move to another county."

He was regarded as a "carpet-bagger" because he was a native of Milan in nearby Erie County and came to Ashland in 1921, only seven years before the courthouse was built.

Judge Culbertson's birthday anniversary this year coincides with the night harness racing season opening at Northfield, near Cleveland. His mare, Gay Pama, will race at Northfield this season and he expects to have "another one or two" there by season end.

Judge Culbertson has been a Democrat all his life except the first time he voted in a Presidential election. He cast his ballot for Teddy Roosevelt.

After 35 years in public service, the judge said "I have always believed that unless you have contributed to the welfare of your fellow man that you haven't lived."

5 Ohio Training Courses Funded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The federal government has notified Gov. James A. Rhodes that five courses under the Manpower Development Training Act have been funded and approved and that six others are awaiting final approval in Washington.

Total cost of the courses already approved is $764,242 for the 430 persons in the program. These are Cincinnati, draftsman mechanic, for 150 persons; Cleveland, multi-clerical for 80 persons; Dayton homemaker for 60 persons; Lima, machine tool operator for 60 persons, and Painesville, machine tool operator for 80 persons.

Rising Price Curbs Asked

Midwest Dem Leaders Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs called on Democrats at their 14-state midwest conference today to help hold the line against rising prices.

"There is no denying that rising prices have hurt many Americans, especially those living on fixed incomes," Mrs. Esther Peterson of Washington said in a prepared address. But retail prices should halt that trend before long, she predicted.

The President has called on all segments of the economy to join in his program of voluntary restraints to cope with rising prices and he deserves support, he asserted.

Mrs. Peterson, who also is Undersecretary of Labor, said consumers could help by "selective buying" of lower priced items and by asking retailers why their prices continue to climb.

Ohio Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman, said 75-100 delegates would attend conference sessions which opened Thursday night with a reception and will end Saturday.

High spot of the political strategy sessions is an address at tonight's banquet by Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman on recent developments in Viet Nam. About 600 expected to attend the $50-a-plate banquet, Coleman estimated.

The closing session Saturday will deal with congressional races in conference states where Democrats captured about half of the 51 U.S. House seats taken from Republicans two years ago.

Iowa Democratic Chairman Lex Hawkins of Des Moines, conference presiding officer, described the Midwest as a political battleground that is going Democratic. He predicted his state, where Democratic congressmen outnumber Republicans 6-1, would keep that lopsided advantage in this year's elections.

New OSU Journalism Chief Invites 9 Dissident Profs To Resign Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The word arrived from Lincoln, Neb., Thursday night: Ohio State University's School of Journalism under the direction of Dr. William E. Hall will have "one team, one captain" AND NO "Viet Cong in the Ranks."

Hall, named by the OSU board of trustees 8-0 Thursday, declared that Ohio State's journalism school "will rejoin the academic community and without any loss of respect from the professional press of Ohio."

Any faculty members who don't want to go along with him, the present University of Nebraska journalism director added, can look for new employment — "I'll be happy to help all of them find new positions."

Nine of the OSU school's 15 faculty members had fought the appointment of Hall, 43. They had urged the trustees to override President Novice G. Fawcett and Arts College Dean J. Osborn Fuller and make acting director Paul Barton permanent director.

When he takes over July 1, Hall said in Lincoln. "I am not coming to Ohio State to try to win a faculty popularity contest. Neither am I coming as anybody's 'yes man.'"

"I am coming for one reason to build for Ohio State a journalism program of which the press and the university can be proud."

Terming himself a "builder and a fighter," the West Virginia native and former New Mexico sports writer said the opposition of "dissident" faculty members "merely make the challenge more interesting."

The Lantern, the OSU daily published by the journalism school with a student staff, commented on Hall's appointment that "journalism education appears to have taken a step backwards" at the university.

The Lantern editorial board said it believes "it will be extremely detrimental to the Lantern to have a man as director, who comes from a school (Nebraska) where the paper is not a part of the school of journalism."

But Hall called the Ohio State journalism situation one in which he is requesting that the faculty "close ranks behind me so we can start rebuilding immediately and regain lost prestige."

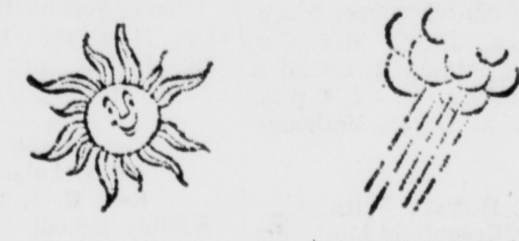

"If the nine protesting faculty members are as dedicated to principle as news stories indicate," he said, "there is no alternative but for them to resign — and as quickly as possible to permit us to begin a rebuilding program."

Barton had no comment as to his plans. No other faculty members spoke out immediately. The Lantern statement, meantime, said that of 30 OSU journalism students canvassed after Hall's appointment, "more than two-thirds expressed a desire to transfer out."

Hall compared the OSU picture with that at Nebraska when he took the similar post there 10 years ago.

"I rebuilt the Nebraska faculty from scratch and I can do it — and I will do it — at Ohio State if necessary," he said.

Spun-fiber Diet Reduces Blood Fats

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Promising results were reported today with a "spun-fiber" diet designed to reduce blood fats under suspicion as contributors to heart attacks.

The diet — made up of predigested soybean protein spun into fibers to give the product a meat-like texture — is designed to give Americans deemed needing it the low-fat properties of the average oriental diet, but one having "the appearance of Western food." The wispy fibers are compacted into tiny morsels, and flavored and colored for serving.

Dr. Robert Hodges of the University of Iowa, who described it at a scientific meeting here, said people in the Orient have long been known to have much lower rates of atherosclerosis, a form of hardening of the arteries believed by many doctors to be the forerunner of heart attacks — than Americans.

And he said that while other factors in addition to dietary ones may aid the orientals in that respect, their low-fat diet is believed to play a significant role.

Hodges indicated at a news conference at the annual convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology that the orientals' dietary staple — rice — might serve the same purpose as the new diet. But he said the latter "is far more acceptable to Americans than rice."

Patients treated with the soybean diet eat the usual constituents of the American diet, Hodges said.

But, in addition to make-believe "ham" and "beef" the spun-fiber diet comes in simulated forms of "fish" and "poultry." A measured amount of fat is incorporated.

Hodges said "profound decreases" in levels of blood-fats, especially cholesterol, were achieved by giving the diet to some Iowa State Prison volunteers and some University of Iowa students in a six-month test.

The doctor said the spun-fiber diet — not yet commercially available, but one that should be moderate in cost when it is — was prepared by a commercial food-processing firm (General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis).

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, April 15, the 105th day of 1966. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1865, Abraham Lincoln died of a bullet wound inflicted by an assassin, John Wilkes Booth.

On this date In 1850, San Francisco was incorporated as a city.

In 1940, British and French troops landed on the coast of Norway.

In 1945, the body of Franklin Delano Roosevelt was buried in the rose garden of the family estate at Hyde Park, N.Y.

In 1946, Spain invited all friendly nations to send a mission to investigate charges that German scientists in Spain were working on atomic energy.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman asked Congress for power to ship arms to friendly nations and deny them to others.

Ten years ago — Israel's Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion declared that Egypt was planning to "slaughter" Israel.

Five years ago — At least three American-made B26 bombers carried out raids on three Cuban air bases.

One year ago—British Prime Minister Harold Wilson visited the United States and conferred with President Johnson.

Resale of Canadian Power Given Approval

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The Vermont Public Service Board has approved a plan to create a corporation to import Canadian power for resale to utilities.

The power would come from a facility proposed for Churchill Falls in Labrador.

Gas Bubble's Travelogue Aids in Study of Heart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Medical travelogues — X-ray movies of an injected gas bubble's journey through veins into the heart — were credited today as a promising new tool in diagnosing a major form of cardiac disease.

The university of Southern California called the technique developed by three radiologists "an overnight success" in detecting trouble in the pericardium, a thin tissue sac enclosing the heart.

Star of the travelogue is a bubble of carbon dioxide, injected into a vein in the left forearm and filmed as it travels into the right upper chamber of the heart.

Measurements of how much the bubble is flattened by the squeezing motions of the heart tell how well the heart is functioning, and particularly whether it is being cramped by unwanted fluid between the heart muscle and the sac that envelops it.

The school said in a report that evidence of pericardial disease was found in 68 of 90 heart patients examined.

In 33 of the 68 the diagnosis was proved correct during surgery or autopsy, "and there is no reason to doubt that the disease is also present in the other 35 patients," the report said.

The technique was developed by Dr. A. Franklin Turner, Dr. Harvey I. Meyers and Dr. George Jacobson of the school's department of radiology.

Injection of the air into the circulation is dangerous because it can expand and block the flow of blood. The USC team uses carbon dioxide because it dissolves within a few seconds, allowing just enough time to film the travelogue.

Rising Price Curbs Asked

Midwest Dem Leaders Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs called on Democrats at their 14-state midwest conference today to help hold the line against rising prices.

"There is no denying that rising prices have hurt many Americans, especially those living on fixed incomes," Mrs. Esther Peterson of Washington said in a prepared address. But retail prices should halt that trend before long, she predicted.

The President has called on all segments of the economy to join in his program of voluntary restraints to cope with rising prices and he deserves support, he asserted.

Mrs. Peterson, who also is Undersecretary of Labor, said consumers could help by "selective buying" of lower priced items and by asking retailers why their prices continue to climb.

Ohio Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman, said 75-100 delegates would attend conference sessions which opened Thursday night with a reception and will end Saturday.

High spot of the political strategy sessions is an address at tonight's banquet by Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman on recent developments in Viet Nam. About 600 expected to attend the $50-a-plate banquet, Coleman estimated.

The closing session Saturday will deal with congressional races in conference states where Democrats captured about half of the 51 U.S. House seats taken from Republicans two years ago.

Iowa Democratic Chairman Lex Hawkins of Des Moines, conference presiding officer, described the Midwest as a

New OSU Journalism Chief Invites 9 Dissident Profs To Resign Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The word arrived from Lincoln, Neb., Thursday night: Ohio State University's School of Journalism under the direction of Dr. William E. Hall will have "one team, one captain" AND NO "Viet Cong in the ranks."

Hall, named by the OSU board of trustees 8-0 Thursday, declared that Ohio State's journalism school "will rejoin the academic community and without any loss of respect from the professional press of Ohio."

Any faculty members who don't want to go along with him, the present University of Nebraska journalism director added, can look for new employment—"I'll be happy to help all of them find new positions."

Nine of the OSU school's 15 faculty members had fought the appointment of Hall, 43. They had urged the trustees to override President Novice G. Fawcett and Arts College Dean J. Osborn Fuller and make acting director Paul Barton permanent director.

When he takes over July 1, Hall said in Lincoln "I am not coming to Ohio State to try to win a faculty popularity contest. Neither am I coming as anybody's 'yes man.'"

"I am coming for one reason to build for Ohio State a journalism program of which the press and the university can be proud."

Terming himself a "builder and a fighter," the West Virginia native and former New Mexico sports writer said the political battleground that is going Democratic. He predicted his state, where Democratic congressmen outnumber Republicans 6-1, would keep that lopsided advantage in this year's elections.

opposition of "disident" faculty members "merely make the challenge more interesting."

Navy Plans First Rescue Submersible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has announced it has ordered construction of its first rescue submersible equipped to retrieve crewmen trapped in disabled submarines.

The prototype will be designed and built by Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif.

This will be the first of six 25-ton, 44-foot sub capable of attaching like leeches to sunken submarines and rescuing a dozen crewmen at a time.

The small craft would be capable of operating at depths of 3,000 feet.

The first model, the Navy said, is expected to be completed by early 1968.

The sub will be eight feet in diameter and will be carried fully assembled in a C141 aircraft.

The Navy said contract negotiations are underway. The cost is expected to run in millions of dollars.

The submersibles will be able to operate underwater for 12 hours, maneuvering at speeds of up to 5 knots in any kind of weather condition and under ice.

commented on Hall's appointment that "journalism education appears to have taken a step backwards" at the university.

The Lantern editorial board said it believes "it will be extremely detrimental to the Lantern to have a man as director, who comes from a school (Nebraska) where the paper is not a part of the school of journalism."

But Hall called the Ohio State journalism school one in which he is requesting that the faculty "close ranks behind me so we can start rebuilding immediately and regain lost prestige."

"If the nine protesting faculty members are as dedicated to principle as news stories indicate," he said, "there is no alternative but for them to resign—and as quickly as possible."

able to permit us to begin a rebuilding program."

Barton had no comment as to his plans. No other faculty members spoke out immediately. The Lantern statement, meantime, said that of 30 OSU journalism students canvassed after Hall's appointment, "more than two-thirds expressed a desire to transfer out."

Hall compared the OSU picture with that at Nebraska when he took the similar post there 10 years ago.

"I rebuilt the Nebraska faculty from scratch and I can do it—and I will do it—at Ohio State if necessary," he said.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is a teaching of Baha'i Faith: "The successive manifestation of the prophets of God is a basic principle of the Baha'i Faith. In a good school system, a teacher builds on the knowledge implanted by former teachers; even so, in the school of mankind's life, each prophet builds on the spiritual teachings of former prophets of God.

"These prophets are all holy men, completely consecrated to God's purpose, and sent as messengers of God to the specific age in which they appear. They are not separate and disconnected. Possessed of the same divine spirit, in obedience to the one same God, they manifest one will in all of their spiritual guidance.

"This guidance through the ages represents the carrying out of the divine plan of the creator for the development of his creation, Man."

Methodist Editor Keeps Magazine in Hot Water

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nobody could have guessed how editor B. J. Stiles would handle the "God is Dead" stir. But it was inevitable. The "issue" that many others had taken so literally turned into satire in "Motive."

On the back cover of the February issue he ran it in a deadpan imitation of a newspaper obituary, headlined:

God is dead in Georgia
Eminent deity succumbs during Surgery—succession in doubt
As all creation groans

LBJ orders flags at half staff
The "obituary" in "Motive" went on to say that "the cause of death could not be immediately determined, pending an autopsy, but the Deity's surgeon, Thomas J.J. Altizer, 38, of Emory University in Atlanta, indicated possible cardiac insufficiency.

"In Johnson City, Tex., President Johnson, recuperating from his recent gall bladder surgery, was described by aides as 'profoundly upset.'

"From Independence, Mo., former President Harry S. Truman, who received the news in his Kansas City barbershop, said: 'I'm always sorry to hear someone is dead. It's a damn shame.'"

That, in a Methodist magazine aimed at college students throughout the country, was sure to bring hurrahs and hosanna on one side and howls of protest on the other. So does at least one article in nearly every issue.

Stiles, 33, a tall Texan who has been editor of the Nashville-based magazine for the past five years, admit that its freedom helps keep "Motive" in hot water.

He still is hearing from the debate he published last November, "Playboy" editor Hugh Hefner and Hefner's severe critic, theologian Harvey Cox, author of "The Secular City."

Hefner raised hackles when he spoke of the "advantages" of premarital sex.

After publication of the Hefner-Cox debate, one Pennsylvania reader demanded that the Methodist Board of Education, which is responsible for the publication of the magazine, stop publication.

Stiles replied: "If churches

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is a teaching of Baha'i Faith: "The successive manifestation of the prophets of God is a basic principle of the Baha'i Faith. In a good school system, a teacher builds on the knowledge implanted by former teachers; even so, in the school of mankind's life, each prophet builds on the spiritual teachings of former prophets of God.

"These prophets are all holy men, completely consecrated to God's purpose, and sent as messengers of God to the specific age in which they appear. They are not separate and disconnected. Possessed of the same divine spirit, in obedience to the one same God, they manifest one will in all of their spiritual guidance.

"This guidance through the ages represents the carrying out of the divine plan of the creator for the development of his creation. Man."

Strange how a landscape sets the imagination to work. Right now, looking at this scene, I can imagine all sorts of things.

Winged steeds riding to heavy music . . . pioneers in the wilderness . . . castles on the cliffs . . . boating at high speeds.

Look at the magic that enables the lake to mirror the rocky mountain peak and the heavens! The vastness and stillness of the scene sets my mind to wondering about time and space and things I will never understand.

But in standing here and wondering so, I feel like I've been near God.

There is a place where I can find Him always—in Church. Will you come with me?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Methodist Editor Keeps Magazine in Hot Water

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nobody could have guessed how editor B. J. Stiles would handle the "God is Dead" stir. But it was inevitable. The "issue" that many others had taken so literally turned into satire in "Motive."

On the back cover of the February issue he ran it in a deadpan imitation of a newspaper obituary, headlined: "God is dead in Georgia. Eminent deity succumbs during Surgery—succession in doubt. As all creation groans."

LBJ orders flags at half staff. The "obituary" in "Motive" went on to say that "the cause of death could not be immediately determined, pending an autopsy, but the Deity's surgeon, Thomas J. J. Altizer, 38, of Emory University in Atlanta, indicated possible cardiac insufficiency."

"In Johnson City, Tex., President Johnson, recuperating from his recent gall bladder surgery, was described by aides as 'profoundly upset.' 'From Independence, Mo., former President Harry S. Truman, who received the news in his Kansas City barbershop, said: 'I'm always sorry to hear someone is dead. It's a damn shame.'"

That, in a Methodist magazine aimed at college students throughout the country, was sure to bring hurrahs and hosanna on one side and howls of protest on the other. So does at least one article in nearly every issue.

Stiles, 33, a tall Texan who has been editor of the Nashville-based magazine for the past five years, admit that its freedom helps keep "Motive" in hot water.

He still is hearing from the debate he published last November. "Playboy" editor Hugh Hefner and Hefner's severe critic, theologian Harvey Cox, author of "The Secular City."

Hefner raised hackles when he spoke of the "advantages" of premarital sex. After publication of the Hefner-Cox debate, one Pennsylvania reader demanded that the Methodist Board of Education, which is responsible for the publication of the magazine, stop publication.

Stiles replied: "If churches

don't take notice of what students have on their mind and help them think it through, they are missing the boat. Hefner, as Playboy editor, is an influence on the campus. We need not pretend. He exists."

Stiles, though, takes courage from the backing of students and church leaders who shower him with letters of praise.

"'Motive' has been a source of the courageous and faithful spirit needed by both the Methodist Church and its student movement," one Californian wrote. "I, for one, am in your debt for this magazine which dares to speak openly."

Stiles would hardly classify himself as a reformer. But he is in earnest about making a Christian's voice heard in every fight, and he quietly measures the opposition.

There is a 12-man editorial board, including one Roman Catholic layman among its predominantly Methodist Protestant members, designed not to hamper the editor, but to make sure "Motive" is fulfilling its purpose: "To speak to college students in the language of college students about Christianity."

In the recent 25th anniversary edition, Stiles reprinted the magazine's statement of purpose from the first issue:

"This is a magazine which takes its motive from Christ, yet it will not set forth dogma, harbor propaganda, nor try to sell adherence to an institution. 'Motive' takes its origin from the most exciting man who ever lived, a man named Jesus, and is reflected in a thousand brilliant lives from his day to our own."

378 Telephone Calls Are Mystery to Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis F. DeWitt says 378 calls the telephone company said he made are mysteries to him.

De Witt told the Public Utilities Commission he paid the General Telephone Co. $1,000 for 378 calls too many last year.

He said the calls — to bars, restaurants and residential and business establishments — were not made by either him or his family.

Spring Revival

Slated at Church

First Baptist Church of Ashville will conduct a spring revival 7:30 p. m. daily April 20 through May 1.

The Rev. Peter Dier, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Union, Mo., will be the evangelist. Rev. Dier conducted the revival here two years ago.

A nursery will be provided for all services. The Rev. Charles Buckner, local pastor, has invited the public to attend.

Medicare To Boost

Nurse Home Standards

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Certain standards imposed on nursing homes by medicare could "inflate an already serious shortage of professional workers," says, Charles Hoffman, a spokesman for the American Nursing Home Association.

Hoffman told a meeting of association members that "medicare will require one registered nurse and several licensed practical nurses to each shift at a nursing home."

The Kingdom Is Divided

TWO SELFISH, AMBITIOUS RULERS LEAD TO THE DETERIORATION OF A NATION

Scripture—1 Kings 11:1-12:24.

By R. H. Ramsey

SOLOMON stands out on the pages of history as one of the most learned men who ever lived. He was a poet, writer, ruler of a vast kingdom, a man of outstanding talent with everything the human heart could desire. He had asked God to give him wisdom, and though generally highly praised for his wisdom, Solomon actually lacked it. Instead he had learning, information and facts on a wide variety of subjects, but not the ability to use his knowledge, which is the crux of wisdom.

Solomon's reign was, in general, peaceful, and he strengthened the peace by taking daughters and sisters of neighboring rulers as wives until he had the largest harem in the Orient, the support of which eventually became an intolerable tax burden upon his people.

Further, Solomon allowed his many wives to bring their foreign gods into the city and worship them, resulting in a rebirth of idolatry. Though Solomon instances in history where human liberties have been asserted in the face of tyranny; they simply wanted redress of their grievances.

Initially, Rehoboam consulted with the older men about him who had been serving the state and his father for years. They counseled him to "be a servant unto his people," comply with the request and speak good words to them. But Rehoboam rejected such good advice, turning instead to young men in the court with whom he had grown up, mere lads who had been raised in luxury, totally ignorant of the true situation of the common people who supported them and the niceties and responsibilities of rulership.

To the petitions of his people the foolish, heartless, insolent youngster on the throne replied that no matter how heavy the yoke his father, Solomon, had laid upon them, he would make their burdens even heavier.

Thus, the folly of Solomon combined with Rehoboam's tyranny and lack of feeling for the himself never openly or wholly apostatized, continuing to worship Jehovah and making perfunctory triannual offerings in the Temple, he allowed his wives to "turn away his heart after other gods."

For his folly the Lord tells Solomon that the kingdom will be divided and most of it given to another line of kings. God punishes Solomon further by inciting the kings of Edom and Syria to rebel against him, ending the peaceful reign of Solomon.

After reigning 40 years, Solomon died and was succeeded by Rehoboam, his son by an Ammonite woman. The people, impoverished by heavy taxation and worn out with forced labor, came to the new monarch asking relief from their heavy burdens. Spokesman for them was Jeroboam, who had been forced to flee to Egypt during Solomon's reign, and had now returned. There was nothing unjust or rebellious in their request; it was one of the few common people to set the stage for the enactment of a huge and tragic drama, one destined to play a large part in the future history of the Hebrew people. In his arrogance, the foolish Rehoboam had worked out the ordained judgment of God.

Infuriated, the ten northern tribes separated themselves from the southern tribes, and established their own kingdom, called Israel, with Jeroboam as their king, and Shechem as the capital city.

With the division, the overwhelming majority of the descendants of Jacob were lost. They became mixed with peoples who had no interest in or loyalty to Jehovah, had no part in the building-up of a nation loyal to Him, and eventually disappeared from sacred history, becoming known as the "Lost Tribes of Israel." Only the tribe of Judah and the little tribe of Benjamin were left to carry on the great work of revelation to which God had appointed the Hebrew people.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is a restless man, bent on doing things his way, even though he gets criticized. He's been criticized for not holding more news conferences. He's held fewer, not more.

President John F. Kennedy liked to read a book at night. Johnson takes a bundle of government papers up to his bedroom with him. And, as if that were not enough, telephones people till midnight.

Kennedy had a mixed life, government and social. Johnson's whole life is government and always has been, with some interruptions for the necessary social occasions.

Kennedy might stride along the sands at Cape Cod or relax on a yacht. Johnson's idea of relaxing is to march around the White House lawn, drive his own car around his ranch or get a massage every night before bedtime.

And sometimes, in sheer frustration it seems, he gets away from the center of something that plagues him but that can't be solved right away.

Earlier this year, when his Viet Nam policy was being heavily criticized in the Senate but he had no intention of changing it, he abruptly flew to Honolulu for a conference with South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Ky's enemies later accused him of being a lackey for running off to Hawaii to meet Johnson.

And now when the Buddhists were in the midst of trying to topple Ky's military government, and the American government seemed in a box about doing anything to stop it, Johnson flew off to his Texas ranch.

Then, after a few days there, he made a 24-hour 'trip to Mexico, although all this seemed like a good time for him to stay close to the White House since so much was at stake for the United States in Viet Nam.

He could give a simple answer to this, of course. He was in just as close contact with the State Department and Pentagon on his ranch as he would have been at the White House. Possibly.

Nevertheless, while some of his actions — like the sudden trip to Honolulu — have been criticized as impulsive, his critics would have more difficulty putting the impulsive brand on his decisions, like ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam resumed after a long pause while peace efforts were made.

But one of the most stinging criticisms of this failure to have more formal news conferences came recently from the Christian Science Monitor's Washington correspondent, Richard L. Strout, who writes with the vitality and joy of 22.

Strout, one of the most delightful writers writing out of the capital, pointed out that, while Kennedy held news conferences about once every two weeks, Johnson has had only one formal conference this year.

Instead of facing 300 or so reporters loaded with all kinds of questions, Johnson prefers sudden sessions with the small group of newsmen who cover him regularly at the White House or individual newsmen permitted to talk with him privately.

Strout takes a dim view of this presidential method of giving the public news.

He said: "Where a modern president foregoes the regular press conference — and I acknowledge it has many faults and is time — consuming and even irksome — you are apt to get a substitute: Government by leak, information by seepage, news-ooze."

How Weather Looks Today

CENTRAL OHIO Mostly cloudy and warmer with a chance of a few showers tonight. Low near 40 Saturday mostly fair and mild. High near 60.

NORTHWEST OHIO —Partly cloudy, little change temperatures through Saturday. Chance of a few light showers south tonight. Low tonight 30-35.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Considerable cloudiness tonight and Saturday morning followed by clearing Saturday afternoon. Chance of a few showers late tonight. Low tonight near 40. High Saturday around 60.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Cloudy with scattered light showers tonight. Not quite so cold. Low 34-39. Saturday mostly cloudy, continued cool.

OHIO 5-DAY FORECAST
Temperatures Saturday through Wednesday will average 3-6 degrees below normal with only minor day to day changes. Daily normal highs and lows are Columbus 63-40, Cincinnati 66-45, and Cleveland 59-36. Showers late Sunday and Monday are expected to average .25 inch.

Soap was invented shortly before A.D. 500, perhaps in what is now Germany. For a while people didn't know quite what to do with it. The well-to-do used it as a cosmetic, farmers to grease their carts and windmills.

Spring Revival Slated at Church

First Baptist Church of Ashville will conduct a spring revival 7:30 p. m. daily April 20 through May 1.

The Rev. Peter Dier, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Union, Mo., will be the evangelist. Rev. Dier conducted the revival here two years ago.

A nursery will be provided for all services. The Rev. Charles Buckner, local pastor, has invited the public to attend.

Medicare To Boost Nurse Home Standards

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Certain standards imposed on nursing homes by medicare could "inflation an already serious shortage of professional workers," says, Charles Hoffman, a spokesman for the American-Nursing Home Association.

Hoffman told a meeting of association members that "medicare will require one registered nurse and several licensed practical nurses to each shift at a nursing home."

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is a restless man, bent on doing things his way, even though he gets criticized. He's been criticized for not holding more news conferences. He's held fewer, not more.

President John F. Kennedy liked to read a book at night. Johnson takes a bundle of government papers up to his bedroom with him. And, as if that were not enough, telephones people till midnight.

Kennedy had a mixed life, government and social. Johnson's whole life is government and always has been, with some interruptions for the necessary social occasions.

Kennedy might stride along the sands at Cape Cod or relax on a yacht. Johnson's idea of relaxing is to march around the White House lawn, drive his own car around his ranch or get a massage every night before bedtime.

And sometimes, in sheer frustration it seems, he gets away from the center of something that plagues him but that can't be solved right away.

Earlier this year when his Viet Nam policy was being heavily criticized in the Senate but he had no intention of changing it, he abruptly flew to Honolulu for a conference with South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ky's enemies later accused him of being a lackey for running off to Hawaii to meet Johnson.

And now when the Buddhists were in the midst of trying to topple Ky's military government, and the American government seemed in a box about doing anything to stop it, Johnson flew off to his Texas ranch.

Then, after a few days there, he made a 24-hour trip to Mexico, although all this seemed like a good time for him to stay close to the White House since so much was at stake for the United States in Viet Nam.

He could give a simple answer to this, of course. He was in just as close contact with the State Department and Pentagon on his ranch as he would have been at the White House. Possibly.

Nevertheless, while some of his actions — like the sudden trip to Honolulu — have been criticized as impulsive, his critics would have more difficulty putting the impulsive brand on his decisions, like ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam resumed after a long pause while peace efforts were made.

But one of the most stinging criticisms of this failure to have more formal news conferences came recently from the Christian Science Monitor's Washington correspondent, Richard L. Strout, who writes with the vitality and joy of 22.

Strout, one of the most delightful writers writing out of the capital, pointed out that, while Kennedy held news conferences about once every two weeks, Johnson has had only one formal conference this year.

Instead of facing 300 or so reporters loaded with all kinds of questions, Johnson prefers sudden sessions with the small group of newsmen who cover him regularly at the White House or individual newsmen permitted to talk with him privately.

Strout takes a dim view of this presidential method of giving the public news.

He said: "Where a modern president foregoes the regular press conference — and I accuse would have more difficulty putting the impulsive brand on his decisions, like ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam resumed after a long pause while peace efforts were made."

new clothes, salads, WRA (Western Reserve Military Academy) and swimming. Her dislikes are rain, homework, Mondays and being an only child.

She attends the Lutheran Church.

When she was asked what she liked about being a freshman she replied, "When you're a freshman you have three fun, exciting, and adventurous years to look forward to. Instead of thinking back to the past we look forward to the future."

By PAT MCFARLAND

This week the journalism class has chosen David Justice as student of the week. David resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Justice at 1201 S. Court St. David has two sisters, Karen 13, and Debbie 5.

Dave is a freshman, 14, in a classical course and attends the EUB Church.

Dave's likes are phys ed, sports, girls, parties, and "Lang". His dislikes include rainy days, Sunday afternoons, and holding dummies at football practice.

Dave enjoys sports very much and at the present time he is on the baseball team. His favorite subjects are Latin and Science. Dave also likes the record, "Kicks".

Dave plans to enter college and prepare for a job in the IBM Data Processing and Computing field after graduation.

When Dave was told he was student of the week he wouldn't believe anyone. He replied, "I never thought they would pick someone like me!"

Costs Nothing To Give a Smile

By LINDA RHYMER

A smile costs nothing, but creates much. It enriches those who receive it, without making poorer those who give it. It takes only a moment, but the memory of it sometimes lasts forever.

None of us are so rich or mighty that we can get along without it and none of us are so poor that we cannot be made rich by it.

A smile creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in school, and is the sign of friendship. It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and is the best antidote for trouble.

It cannot be bought, borrowed, begged, or stolen, for it is something that is of no value until it is given away. It is a little thing with a big meaning. A smile is pleasing to those in high and low positions and is useful every moment of the day. Some people are too tired to give a smile. Give them one of yours, for no one needs a smile quite so much as he who has none left to give.

Victory Bell Search Ends

PLANNING VICTORIES — Cheerleaders Melinda Anderson and Joyce Valentine pose with the victory bell, to be erected at the new high school, with hopes of getting "lots of use" from the bell donated by the Dowden family.

By SUSAN THOMPSON

Search for a victory bell to be donated to CHS by the graduating Class of 1964 has at long last ended.

It was the wish of the '64 graduating class to present to CHS a victory bell which would be rung after all victorious home games.

Recently the Dowden family of Circleville heard of the plight and contributed a bell. The following family members are graduates of Circleville High School: Durward D. Dowden, Class of 1920; J. Austin Dowden, Class of 1922; Eula D. O'Neal, Class of 1925; and Elizabeth Dowden Hitchcock, Class of 1935.

Doug Dunkle, the 1964 class projects chairman, will formally present the victory bell at the CHS annual Awards Assembly on May 27.

Seniors To Stage "Miracle Worker"

By JILL ROBERTSON

This year's senior class is presenting "The Miracle Worker," the dramatic play of the life of Helen Keller. This production will be produced May 13-14 in the CHS auditorium.

Cast for the play as selected at the tryouts are as follows. Sherry Garner is playing the part of Helen Keller; Linda Bowers portrays Ann Sullivan, Helen's teacher; Captain Keller, Helen's father is played by Jim Archer and her mother, Kate, by Chris Zehner; James, her brother, is acted by Randy Nelson. Other characters are Dr. Anagnos, Roger Grigg; Viney, Jill Robertson; the Doctor, Arnold Martin; the Servant, Hodgie Dade; Helen's playmates Percy, Dan Teal and Martha, Zuella Coleman; and Helen's Aunt Ev, played by Leann Gross.

The cast has only four weeks left for preparation of this heart-rending drama. Many hours, nights and weekends are scheduled for this preparation.

An unusual set will be featured in the production. Technical director, Glenn Plum has been busy working on the set for the last week. Members of the set committee are Leann Gross, Connie Carter, Lynn Hughes, Jane Mader, Mary Lou Skaggs, Kathy Edgington, Eddie Arnold, Bonnie Moffitt, Vicki Bray and Linda Young.

THE make-up is another important step to a fine production. This year's crew will be working all four weeks, buying, organizing, and applying the make-up. The make-up committee consists of Connie Carter, Kathy Edgington, Sally Whaley, Susan Butz, Mary Mader, Bonnie Moffitt, Kay McDonald and Vicki Bray.

Good publicity is always needed for a good production. Members of this committee are Jill Robertson, Kathy Edgington, Elizabeth Kenworthy serving as chairman, Sherry Garner, and Leann Gross.

Regina Parcells and Georganna Reynolds, co-chairmen for the tickets and programs have quite a task to accomplish. But with a committee like Gerry Rich, Ruth Jacobs, Carolyn Crawford, Sandy Ramey and Linda Dean, they can prove themselves.

Props crew, headed by Lynn Hughes and Jane Mader, are responsible for seeing that all furniture, dishes and other items needed are received for the production and returned to the owners without damage. Helping Lynn and Jane are Kathy Edgington, Eddie Arnold and Phil Niswender.

Where would the cast be without costumes to set the atmosphere? Ask Mary Lou Skaggs, chairman of the costume committee. Helping Mary Lou are Connie Carter and Janice Imbler.

Sounds is always needed to show different effects. Co-chairmen Terry Lewis, and Bill Brock should be hearing a variety of sounds after working on this committee.

The lighting committee has a very difficult job, setting and producing the lights at the right time and place. Members having this task are Lynn Rickey, Candy Dawson and John Owens. A lot of hard work is ahead for the cast and committees in preparation for this outstanding drama. They'll need all the help and cooperation of others that they can get.

Tomorrow, the drum ensemble along with Melissa Matz and Eric Downing will be traveling to Muskingum College for state judicious.

Drum ensemble consists of Branson Hawkes, Bill Adkins, Terry Hull, and Craig Benzenberg. They received a superior rating in the district. Melissa Matz also received a superior rating on her piano solo in the district. Eric Downing played a flute solo and received a superior rating.

This is sponsored by the Ohio Music Education Association.

The principal's secretary, Donna Crable, is a CHS graduate.

Victory Bell Search Ends

PLANNING VICTORIES — Cheerleaders Melinda Anderson and Joyce Valentine pose with the victory bell, to be erected at the new high school, with hopes of getting "lots of use" from the bell donated by the Dowden family.

By SUSAN THOMPSON

Search for a victory bell to be donated to CHS by the graduating Class of 1964 has at long last ended.

It was the wish of the '64 graduating class to present to CHS a victory bell which would be rung after all victorious home games.

Recently the Dowden family of Circleville heard of the plight and contributed a bell. The following family members are graduates of Circleville High School: Durward D. Dowden, Class of 1920; J. Austin Dowden, Class of 1922; Eula D. O'Neal, Class of 1925; and Elizabeth Dowden Hitchcock, Class of 1935.

Doug Dunkle, the 1964 class projects chairman, will formally present the victory bell at the CHS annual Awards Assembly on May 27.

Tiger 'Pause'

By BARB MACKENZIE, SUSAN THOMPSON, NANCY WALLISA

Senior and eighth grade group pictures were delivered Tuesday.

Seniors have their safety pins down to 29, which marks their days left at CHS.

Darryl Bass hopes to be back to school in another month. He has missed a few months now because of rheumatic fever.

Mr. Dale Ambros was married over Easter Vacation.

Girls' phys ed classes were graded on tumbling this week.

Linda Rhymer, Susan Thompson, and Tamala Wilkins were in charge of the paper this week.

This victory bell will undoubtedly be a tremendous asset to CHS. It will be the symbol of a great school spirit and the time and hard work of all those who helped boost our teams on to victory. Indeed, it will be mighty hard to forget the victory bell at CHS! We hope it will ring out early in September.

HEART SUB—It's an artificial heart, on display in Good-year's Rubber Exhibit in Akron, Ohio, that pumps "blood" and works just like a real one. The rubber heart was designed by Dr. W. J. Kolf of Cleveland Clinic, and medical science might devise a way for it to substitute for a defective one at some time in the future.

Track Squad Tops Miami T

By DANA BASS

CHS track team was victorious at a triangular track meet last Thursday held at Miami Trace with Hillsboro also competing. As the final scoring turned out CHS had 64½ points, Miami Trace 54½, Hillsboro 40. In scoring at a Triangular track meet you get five points for first place, three for second, two for third, and one for fourth.

In the first event Tom Fletcher of CHS tied the boy from Miami Trace with a shot put of 47 feet 6 inches. In the discus throw Tom Jenkins was fourth with 88 feet 5 inches. Brad Marshall was second in the broad jump with 18 feet 2 3/4 inches and Steve Dade was third with 18 feet 2 1/4 inches. Bruce Tigner came in fourth in the high jump at 5 feet 6 inches. In the last jumping event Doug Pontious tied for second with 10 feet.

In the first of the running events John Butts was first with a time of 11:26.8 in the two-mile run. In the 120-yard high hurdles Bruce Tigner was first with a time of 17 seconds. Mike "Sam" Martindill was first in the mile run with time of 5:06.9 and Robby Adkins was second with 5:09. In the 440-yard run Doug Pontious was first with 54.8 seconds. Gerald McCain was first in the 880 - yard run at 2:09.5 and Tom Wright second. Dade was second in the 180-yard low hurdles with 23 seconds and Tigner was second with 23.7. In the 220 Pontious was third with 24.3. Circleville's mile relay team was first with a time of 3:49.2.

Tomorrow the team travels to Portsmouth for a meet at 2:30 p. m.

Senior class play practice started last Tuesday night.

There will be a car wash on April 30 from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m., sponsored by the Hi-Y. This will be held in the CHS parking lot.

This is the end of the sixth week of the fifth six weeks.

Circleville Thinclads Win Meet at Groveport, 87-40

Circleville's high school track team swept past Groveport, 87-40, on the loser's track Thursday in dual competition.

The Tiger thinclads were paced by Doug Pontious who earned four firsts. He won the pole vault with a 10-foot effort, the 100-yard dash in 11.1 the 440-yard dash in 53.6, and the 220-yard dash in 23.9.

It was the first time Pontious has run the 100 in competition and only the second time he has been used in the 220 by Coach Jim Lint.

In the pole vault the Tigers swept all three places with Bruce Tigner finishing second and Rod Sines third.

TIGNER also won the high jump for the Tigers with a 5-foot 8-inch leap.

Other first place finishes for Circleville were provided by John Butts in the two-mile run with a time of 11:04; Steve Dade in the high hurdles with a time of 17.1; Robbie Adkins in the mile with a 4:56.3 effort and Larry McCain in the 880-yard run.

Circleville also won both relay events.

The Red and Black cindermen travel to Newark Saturday for the annual invitational there. Next Tuesday the Tigers travel to Teays Valley for a meet.

Ohio Fishing Conditions Are 'Fair'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Division of Wildlife, in its first fishing report of the season, predicted generally "fair" prospects for the weekend — along with some bright spots. Water temperature generally is at 42 degrees.

The outlook by districts: Central Ohio—Most lakes and streams clear and normal with lake catches including bluegills, crappies, bass, catfish, perch, walleyes, carp and consist mostly of crappies, bass, catfish, sucker and carp. Some of the best fishing spots are O'Shaughnessy Reservoir, Hoover Reservoir, with Deer Creek and Big Darby Creek the best of the streams.

Northwestern—Most streams and lakes clear and normal; fishing pressure light due to cool weather; crappie, bluegills, bass, walleyes and perch being taken from lakes with Resthaven Ponds, Lima, Findlay and Fostoria reservoirs the best spots. Sandusky River at Fremont, Maumee River in Defiance and Henry Counties and Huron Pier also listed as good spots.

Southeastern—Lakes and streams generally clear and normal with best spots at Tycoon, Jackson, Forked Run, Piedmont and Seneca Lakes and best streams being Muskingum River, and at confluences of its tributary streams; Little Muskingum and Licking River below Dillon Dam; and Paint Creek. Outlook good.

Southwestern—Streams and Lakes generally roily to clear and normal; Rocky Fork Lake is down for facility development. Best lake spots are at Cowan, Grand Lake St. Marys, Grant, Clark Lakes and Reid Park Ponds; Best streams are Stillwater River, Rocky Fork Creek, Scioto Brush and Ohio Brush Creeks. Weekend outlook poor to fair.

Ellis Gets Nod To Lead Redlegs

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sammy Ellis was expected to start tonight in the Cincinnati Reds' first baseball game of the season—and the fans back in Cincinnati hoped the Reds' weather troubles wouldn't follow them to the East Coast.

The Reds' opening series with the New York Mets was washed out earlier this week by persistent rain.

Manager Don Heffner said he plans to start Jim Maloney in Saturday's game against the Phils. Milt Pappas, who came to the Reds last winter, probably will start Sunday. He had been slated to pitch the opener.

Keith Coates, Michigan State track team miler, set a big Ten record outdoors with a 4:08.5 clocking as a 1965 sophomore.

Azalea Open Lead Knotted

Weiskopf, Bauer Head First Round

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Each year the Professional Golfers' Association of America distributes to newsmen a tournament player catalogue.

In its more than 100 pages are biographies of the regular tournament players and their records.

Tom Cassidy fired a 74 in the opening round of the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., yesterday, six strokes off the pace.

"I feel confident I can play better . . . I hit the ball real well, putted good, but made a couple of mistakes by just being careless," Cassidy reported.

It takes two pages to detail accomplishments of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer and a full page for other top players.

But to find the listings for Tom Weiskopf and Gary Bauer co-leaders, and Jay Dolan, No. 3 man, going into today's second round of the $20,000 Azalea Open Tournament, you have to turn to the "thumbnail sketches" section at the end of the book.

There, five or six players of lesser renown are grouped on a single page, in smaller type. Eight or 10 lines tell the story.

These are basically the young and hungry players the members of the "dawn patrol" that starts early and seldom gets the headlines, or semiretired veterans who rarely play tournament golf any more.

But Thursday was their day. Weiskopf shot the course in 34:34.68, then waited four hours to see Bauer come along with a 32:36.68 to tie him.

They split $1,000 which is offered by sponsors for the best daily score. In addition, $500 will go to the 36 and 54-hole leaders. The tournament carries a guaranteed purse of $20,000, with prospects of a boost to near $30,000 by playoff time after 72 holes Sunday.

Back of Dolan's 34:35.69 were eight 70 shooters, including Jerry Barber, a three-time winner here. Dick Hart, last year's champ, Australian Kel Nagle, amateur Bill Harvey of Greensboro, N.C., and South African Cobie Legrange were others at 70.

Birdie Says Tribe To Win Pennant

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians attended a pep rally Thursday, the day before their home opener, and heard Manager Birdie Tebbetts and Tribe President Gabe Paul turn out some optimistic forecasts.

"I think we can—I think we will win the pennant," Tebbetts told the crowd of 1,000 at the rally. Paul said he thought "we have a team that refuses to be beaten, one that has matured and has learned to win. I'm looking forward to everything that goes with a winner."

Sam McDowell, the Cleveland Indians' only starting pitcher so far this year, hoped for his second victory today in the home opener against the Boston Red Sox.

Amo Bessone, Michigan State hockey coach, earned letters in baseball and basketball at Illinois.

Houston Slugger Beats Dodger '9' Second Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rusty Staub, enigmatic to some people, is too painfully transparent to Ron Perranoski and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Staub, who celebrated his 22nd birthday two weeks ago, has two hits in his fourth season in the majors, and both have had the same effect. They've beaten the Dodgers.

The Houston right fielder smashed a two-run homer against Perranoski Thursday night, climaxing a three-run, eighth-inning rally that carried the Astros past the Dodgers 4-2. His run-scoring single off Perranoski in the ninth inning the night before gave Houston a 7-6 victory.

From the time he was a 19-year-old rookie through the present, Staub has been considered a mystery by many people. They have found it difficult to understand some of his actions.

There was, for example, the night in St. Louis last August when he started home from second on a single. He raced to third and started toward home but suddenly pulled up and trotted the rest of the way to the plate where he was an easy out.

Staub simply walked to the dugout, went right past a seething Manager Luman Harris and sat down. He didn't say a word, seeing no reason to explain why he walked into the tag.

As it turned out, though, he had a good reason. In rounding third, the youngster reinjured a thigh muscle.

"I knew if I stopped at third and didn't try to score, Luman would think I couldn't run and I'd be out of the line-up," Staub explained. "So as I rounded third I felt the muscle go, and I just pulled up."

"I knew if I tried to keep running, I'd hurt it bad and might be out the rest of the season. I was already around third, I didn't know where the ball was or whether they were even trying to make a play on me, and so the only thing I saw to do

Vikings Drop Dual Meet With Falcons

Teays Valley dropped a dual track meet Thursday to visiting Fairfield Union, 65-53.

The Viking thinclads captured five firsts. The visiting Falcons had nine.

George Coey, a freshman, cleared 5 feet 10 inches for a first in the high jump for the Vikings. Bob Speicher came up with two wins as he sped to a 11.5 first place finish in the 100 yard dash and a 25.8 effort in the 220 yard dash.

Dan Swank won the mile run in 5:09.8. The other win for the Vikings came in the 880-yard relay.

was just ease on toward the plate." In the only other National League games, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 5-4 and Chicago whipped San Francisco 9-4. Tony Oliva, who won batting championships in each of his first two American League seasons swinging with one hand, has both to work with now so it figures he'll do twice the damage. Like a home run title to go with his batting crowns perhaps? Oliva walloped his second homer in as many days Thursday as Minnesota completed a three-game sweep of Kansas City, 4-2. His homer gave the 24-year-old Cuban outfielder four hits and five runs batted in, in his first 10 at bats this season. Oliva underwent surgery at the Mayo Clinic last fall to remove bone chips from the middle finger of his right hand. The chips had prevented him from gripping the bat tightly last year and caused him to lose control of it many times. "I can grip the bat a lot better now," Oliva said. "But I still worry about hurting the finger by hitting it on the knob of the bat." The young star is wearing a black glove to protect his damaged hand this spring but there's nothing protecting enemy pitchers from his bat. He went hitless in his first three swings against Kansas City in Tuesday's opener but it bothered neither Oliva nor manager Sam Mele. In the only other American League games played Thursday, California shaded Chicago 2-1 and Detroit swept a double-header from New York 3-2 and 5-2.

was just ease on toward the plate." In the only other National League games, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 5-4 and Chicago whipped San Francisco 9-4.

Tony Oliva, who won batting championships in each of his first two American League seasons swinging with one hand, has both to work with now so it figures he'll do twice the damage.

Like a home run title to go with his batting crowns perhaps?

Oliva walloped his second homer in as many days Thursday as Minnesota completed a three-game sweep of Kansas City, 4-2.

His homer gave the 24-year-old Cuban outfielder four hits and five runs batted in, in his first 10 at bats this season.

Oliva underwent surgery at the Mayo Clinic last fall to remove bone chips from the middle finger of his right hand. The chips had prevented him from gripping the bat tightly last year and caused him to lose control of it many times.

"I can grip the bat a lot better now," Oliva said. "But I still worry about hurting the finger by hitting it on the knob of the bat."

The young star is wearing a black glove to protect his damaged hand this spring but there's nothing protecting enemy pitchers from his bat.

He went hitless in his first three swings against Kansas City in Tuesday's opener but it bothered neither Oliva nor manager Sam Mele.

In the only other American League games played Thursday, California shaded Chicago 2-1 and Detroit swept a doubleheader from New York 3-2 and 5-2.

Westfall Stops Logan Elm By 11-2 Count in SVC Tilt

The Westfall Mustangs stopped Logan Elm, 11-2, Thursday on the Braves' field in a Scioto Valley Conference game.

It was the first conference tilt for the Braves and the second for Westfall. Paul Hoskins' Mustangs own a 1-1 loop record and a 4-1 overall mark. The Braves stand at 0-1 in the league and 0-3 for all games. Neil Coleman was the winning hurler, going six innings before he was relieved by Gary Liff, Mustang catcher, laced three hits, including a double. Tom Hamman blasted a triple and a single and Roger Clark collected a pair of bingles.

For the Braves, Mike Helwig poked three singles in four trips to the plate. The Braves continue conference play by traveling to Pikesville High School today for a tilt. Westfall hosts Paint Valley in an SVC tilt today.

Flame Tree, a son of Count Flame — Linden Lane, was foaled at Ocala Stud Farm in Florida. In 1965 he won the Dover at Delaware Park and the Sanford at Saratoga.

Westfall Stops Logan Elm By 11-2 Count in SVC Tilt

The Westfall Mustangs stopped Logan Elm, 11-2, Thursday on the Braves' field in a Scioto Valley Conference game. It was the first conference tilt for the Braves and the second for Westfall.

Paul Hoskins' Mustangs own a 1-1 loop record and a 4-1 overall mark. The Braves stand at 0-1 in the league and 0-3 for all games.

Neil Coleman was the winning hurler, going six innings before he was relieved by Combs, a freshman, Coleman fanned five and walked four. Between them, they allowed seven hits.

FOR LOGAN ELM Russ Merin went the route, fanning one and walking five. Four of his walks came in the first two innings, and coupled with a three-run error, played a hand in the eight runs the visitors scored in the first and second.

Gary Liff, Mustang catcher, laced three hits, including a double. Tom Hamman blasted a triple and a single and Roger Clark collected a pair of bingles.

For the Braves, Mike Helwagen poked three singles in four trips to the plate.

The Braves continue conference play by traveling to Pike-ton High School today for a tilt. Westfall hosts Paint Valley in an SVC tilt today.

Flame Tree, a son of Count Flame — Linden Lane, was foaled at Ocala Stud Farm in Florida. In 1965 he won the Dover at Delaware Park and the Sanford at Saratoga.

"There is just no shipping problem out there on military cargoes," McNamara said he could not vouch for economic aid or commercial cargoes.

Backing up McNamara was his deputy secretary, Cyrus R. Vance, newly returned from an inspection of logistics, shipping and other aspects of the U.S. military buildup in Viet Nam.

Vance said that while he was in Viet Nam only 34 ships with military cargoes were waiting to be unloaded or in the process of being unloaded. This was a "wholly satisfactory situation" in the view of logistics officers, the Pentagon's second ranking official said.

Jet Fighters To Be Based In Spain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says its decision to base jet fighter squadrons in Spain is not the result of France ordering all foreign military forces and bases from its territory.

A Pentagon spokesman said Thursday there now are no U.S. air squadrons in France. He said the decision to base three squadrons of Air Force F100 jet fighters at the Torrejon Air Base was made to lessen the strain on the U.S. Tactical Air Command.

The command has been rotating three squadrons of jets from the United States to Italy and Turkey. The Spanish base will permit Italy and Turkey to be served by U.S. Air Force units in Europe.

About 800 Air Force men from the United States will be transferred to the Spanish base outside Madrid by the end of this month. Torrejon is one of three air bases used by the United States in Spain. The others are at Moron in southern Spain and Zaragoza in eastern Spain.

Torrejon also is the base for KC135 jet tankers used to refuel B52 bombers. Spain now bars aerial refueling over its territory after a KC135 and a B52 collided last January. Four hydrogen bombs were lost, including one that was not recovered until last week in the Mediterranean sea. The others were found on Spanish territory shortly after the crash.

Pocket Knife Is Used in Quick Surgery

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Three doctors and a nurse happened to be passing by when Jack Baker, 5, was struck down by a car in rush hour traffic.

"He was knocked at least four car lengths," said Dr. Emilio Ferrara, a dentist.

"He wasn't breathing and was turning blue," said Ferrara who drove up with a nurse Jean Carr.

Ferrara administered heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation as two more physicians, Dr. Earl G. Solomon and his wife, Ann, came along Thursday.

"When you see a person is not breathing, the procedure is a tracheotomy," Mrs. Solomon said.

She started the operation with a pocket knife borrowed from a passerby but it was too dull.

"We called again and someone gave me a larger knife," Mrs. Solomon said.

"It worked."

"We also wanted a straw but someone took a ball point pen apart and handed me the hollow tube."

"It worked nicely."

Mrs. Solomon said the child started to breathe again when she blew air into the tube and Dr. Ferrara continued heart massage.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Bakre, was hospitalized and was in critical condition today.

New Appointment, Transfer Listed at Du Pont Plant

Two personnel changes were announced today by officials at Du Pont's Circleville film plant.

One of the changes involves Richard W. Ginther, Route 8, Chillicothe, who has been appointed a manufacturing foreman at the "Kapton" facility. The other concerns Thomas V. Beckey who has been transferred here from the company's Belle plant at Charleston, W. Va.

Ginther started with Du Pont in 1958 as an operator in "My-lar" manufacturing. He was transferred to the "Kapton" installation in February of last year.

The new foreman is a graduate of Catholic Central High School, Chillicothe. He is a member of St. Mary's Church there.

GINTHER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ginther, Route 8, Chillicothe, served three years in the U. S. Navy. He and his wife, Carol, have three children, Elizabeth, 5, Richard, 3, and Jeffrey, 5 months.

Beckey, who now lives in Columbus, was transferred from the industrial and biochemicals department at the Belle plant in Charleston. He has been assigned here as a specialist-maintenance, in the works engineering department.

With Du Pont since 1957, Beckey started as a mechanical engineer in the maintenance division at the Belle plant. Other assignments there included project engineer, various posts in the technical section, division engineer in maintenance and area maintenance supervisor.

the appointment of a caretaker regime to supervise the elections.

"That is one of the matters to be discussed," he said.

Tran Quang Thuan, the council's lay spokesman and a former welfare minister, said the monks were "generally satisfied" with the government's pledges Thursday but added they did not erase all problems.

Thuan said that despite the government's pledge of an amnesty to all demonstrators the monks feared reprisals in Da Nang, Hue and other northern Buddhist strongholds where the public agitation began.

Thi's statement in Da Nang supported speculation that the Buddhist-led dissidents in the north might not go along with the leader in Saigon. Thi said he believed demonstrations will continue in the northern part of the country until there is a "government of the people."

Thi, who courted Buddhist favor as commander of the 1st Corps, which embraces the five northernmost provinces, called for a provisional government to replace the junta from which he was ousted on March 10.

He said the crisis had weakened the military struggle against the Viet Cong but brushed off the fears of some Americans that Communists might be elected to high office in the coming elections. He said the Vietnamese villagers had and judgment to vote wisely.

Kentucky Armco Fuss Is Settled

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Dissident members of Local 1865 of the United Steelworkers Union have voted to return to work at the Ashland works of the Armco Steel Corp.

Some 400 members of the union, who referred to themselves as "Loyal Volunteers of Local 1865," voted Thursday night to return to their jobs after production resumed earlier in the day.

Leonard Jobe, spokesman for the group, said the men would return to their jobs long enough for Armco and the union to hold talks on grievances. The strike of the 3,900-member local started April 3 over the suspension of an employee.

Armco and Local 1865 officials agreed in a joint back-to-work call to negotiations on the strikers' grievances after full production is attained. The dissident union members at first rejected the offer.

Lycan said contempt charges would be heard today against nine strikers accused of breaking the court's order prohibiting picketing "if the attorneys and the witnesses insist."

The nine were cited for violating the order immediately after it was issued one week ago.
